24 Nazi Chiefs Indicted

By the Associated Press

BERLIN, Oct. 18—The most sweeping indictment in history, charging a criminal conspiracy to war against the world, was filed today against 24 of Hitler's Nazi hierarchy and leaders of his army staff. The 24,000-word indictment was presented to the first international war crimes court as the initial step in the trial by which Allied prosecutors expect to send Goering, Hess, Jodl and their cohorts to their deaths.

4000 Tars on Leave

With good luck, 4000 sailors who have taken the brunt of war in the Pacific, may have liberty in Boston tonight. The size of the liberty depends upon the skippers of the fighting vessels that came in yesterday, the battleships New Mexico and North Carolina, the cruiser Concord and the two destroyers, John Rodgers and Harrison.

Six high ranking officers of the visiting flotilla paid courtesy calls on Governor Tobin at the State House. The group then went to the Hall of Flags and showed great interest in the historic standards on display there.

Included were Capt. J. M. Haines of the New Mexico, Com. B. H. Hanlon of the North Carolina, Capt. C. H. Bushnell of the Concord, Capt. J. W. Ludewig, commander of Destroyer Squadron 25; Com. J. G. Franklin of the John Rodgers and Com. W. V. Coombs of the Harrison.

On the way here for the Navy Day celebration are ships that have been down to the sea, and with glory.

The submarine Drum is due off Boston Light at 4 a. m. Saturday, first of four undersea veterans to hit port, India wharf.

The submarine Whale will pass the Light at 4 p. m. Tuesday and head for Long wharf.

The submarine Paddle will slip by the Light at 1 p. m. Wednesday and nose into India Wharf.

The Mackerel, fourth of the undersea fighters, will pass the Light at 5 p. m. next Thursday and point toward Long Wharf.

The speedy transport Hunter Marshall is due to dock at Commonwealth Pier, South Boston, at noon Thursday.

The memorable and valiant Wasp, the aircraft carrier, is on the way.

Meanwhile, the city was ready to open its heart to the host of blue coming ashore. Many of the men have been away three or four years.

R. Adm. Felix Gyax, commandant here, said:

"I take pleasure in saying to the officers and crews, 'Well done.'"

That's terseness to civilians. In the Navy it means, "Bub, you certainly knocked hell out of them."

Hub Cheers Kenney In 2-Day Welcome

Gen. George C. Kenney of Brookline, commander of the Pacific Allied Air Forces, arrived at Logan International Airport in East Boston today for a hero's welcome and the beginning of a two-day official Boston greeting.

The man who drove the Jap from the skies dropped in on Boston at 3:30 p. m. with Mayor Kerrigan and officers of the First Service Command on hand to start off the round of festivities. Mrs. Kenney accompanied her famous husband here on the flight from Washington.

Taking leave of a cheering throng, the general departed in a motor cavalcade for the Common to receive Boston's first official greeting, an address by the mayor from Parkman bandstand.

Gen. Kenney will acknowledge the greeting and then return to the motorcade, which will take him to the Copley Plaza Hotel, where he will be guest of honor at a banquet tendered by the city.

Tomorrow's celebrations will begin at 10 a. m. with an all-military parade through downtown Boston. Detachments will include soldiers from the First Service Command headquarters, Fort Devens and Westover field. More than a hundred planes will furnish an aerial cover.

Route of the parade is Clarendon st. to Commonwealth ave., to Arlington, Boylston, Tremont, Park, Beacon, School, Washington and Water sts. to Postoffice sq., where Gen. Kenney will review the parade from the federal building steps.

After the parade, the general will be guest of honor at a luncheon tendered by Gov. Tobin in the Hotel Statler. The dinner will begin at 12:15 and end at 2:30.

The general and his party will then go to Cambridge

The document charged mass murder of 10,000,000 persons and pillage, multiple crimes and atrocities against other millions of persons and dozens of nations.

It was even more important in its broad aspects. It sought to establish in the pages of history a clear warning—that conspiracy to make war is a crime against humanity.

The German general staff and high command of German armed forces were among six German organizations which the presiding judge of the austere opening session, Maj. Gen. I. T. The indictment was filed by prosecutors of the United States, Russia, Great Britain and France with judges of those nations. The defendants will have 30 days to prepare defenses.

Of the politicians, militarists, industrialists, diplomats and other functionaries who participated in Hitler's supreme bid for world domination, all but Martin Bormann are in the Nuernberg prison.

Hitler himself, was not indicted. There is inconclusive evidence that the master war criminal died in his capital last spring when the Russians conquered Berlin while American and British armies were massed in triumph on the Elbe, 40 odd miles to the west. Bormann is believed at large.

Gen. Nikitchenko stated for the court that prosecutors of the four nations, including Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States, would seek to convict, besides the German general staff

Hitler Not On Indictment List

One name is conspicuously missing from the list of German leaders indicted for major war crimes.

It is mentioned frequently throughout the 25,000-word text of the indictment, however. The name—Adolf Hitler.

The Allied prosecutors who drew up the indictment ventured no guesses as to his current address.

and high command, the German cabinet, the SS or schutzstaffel, the SD or secret service Sicherheitsdienst, the SA or Sturm Abteilung (storm troopers) and the leadership corps of the Nazi party.

British Lord Justice Lawrence will preside at the Nuernberg trials. Former Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle will sit on the bench as United States judge.

All the 24 Germans named were indicted collectively for participating in a common plan of conspiracy and individually for the parts they played in plunging the world into its bloodiest and costliest war.

The charges were made in four categories: Conspiracy, crime against peace, war crime and crime against humanity.

Specifically, the four nations listed such crimes as "murder, ill treatment, deportation for slave labor, and murder and ill treatment of prisoners of war and of Continued on Page 26 Column 1

Wainwright Promoted, Refuses to Surrender

By GEN. JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

(Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited.)

After saying good-by to Gen. MacArthur on March 10, 1942, the day he told me he was pulling out for Australia, I walked slowly back to the Malinta Tunnel on Corregidor and picked up my aides, Col. Johnny Pugh and Maj. Tom Dooley. I would like to have told them the news, but I had been sworn to secrecy. It was a quiet ride back to Bataan on the little boat, and my thoughts were filled with the events running from the time my wife and I arrived in the Philippines, 15 months before, to today's new assignment and hopeless situation.

Sgt. Carroll, my orderly, met us at Mariveles with the jeep. We then climbed in silently and drove back to my trailer headquarters in the woods south of Bagac, while I speculated on the forces I would have under me when I assumed command of all Luzon units on the morning of March 12. I would have, in all, 70,000 men, not nearly half of them combat troops. Gen. Homma's new landings in the Lingayen Gulf area had increased the Jap force to about a quarter of a million men. There was, of course, little comparison between our physical condition and arms, and theirs.

I would now command both the 1st and the 2d Corps. They made up about 60,000 of my men, with about 35,000 in Parker's 2d Corps and 25,000 in my old 1st Corps. Sprinkled among them were 10,000 service corpsmen, one or two quartermaster groups and the medical units, which included about 100 American nurses.

Far to the north I had two small guerrilla bands, totaling 2000 and still reachable by radio. On Corregidor and the three smaller forts in Manila bay—Fts. Drum, Frank and Hughes—were about 10,000 more men, including a regiment of Marines. Defenders of the fortified islands were under over-all command of Maj. Gen. George F. Moore.

My "Navy" by that time consisted of four motor torpedo boats, commanded by Lt. John Bulkeley, two or three small mine sweepers, and a few miscellaneous craft. The "air force" was down to one P-40, in bad condition and hidden at a field just east of Mariveles.

Not long before we had raised our air force to four P-40's, thanks to aid from the south. They continued to be used essentially for reconnaissance, but one night they more than reverted to type. Each was fitted with makeshift bomb-racks and took off with a total of 1200 pounds of explosives—300 pounds to each plane—swept over Subic Bay and raised hell with a concentration of Jap ships.

The Jap radio, with its customary flair for exaggeration, said that the ships were attacked by 27 B-17's and that 14 of the four-engined Flying Fortresses had been shot down by Jap gunners.

We got a laugh out of that, but the laugh froze when three of the four P-40's cracked up on the landing back at Mariveles. So now there was one.

On the morning of March 12, 1942, I lined up all general officers of the I Corps at my headquarters and told them

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR AND HIS WIFE ON CORREGIDOR

In a few days they will leave for Australia where MacArthur will begin the long march back.

the news of MacArthur's departure and of the new command setup.

I watched their faces as I spoke. They were all at first depressed by the news that our great commander had been forced, by order of President Roosevelt, the Commander-in-Chief, to leave us. But I soon saw that they understood, just as I understood. They realized as well as I what the score was.

I then gave command of my old I Corps to Brig. Gen. A. M. Jones, and hitched up my creaking trailer. I moved my headquarters 20 miles south to a clearing just east of Mariveles, where MacArthur had established what was called his advanced headquarters on Bataan.

It was not an ideal setup. My trailer, bad as it was, was the most durable structure in the clearing. The rest of my headquarters force camped on the ground. There were two or three pup tents, and we gathered such telephone and

This Is My Story

(Editor's Note: This is the eleventh in a series of articles in which Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright tells for the first time the whole story of the fall of the Philippines and his eventual capture by the Japs. Today's article deals with the reaction of his men to the news that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had departed for Australia, Wainwright's new duties as commander-in-chief of forces in the hopeless war for the Philippines, and the first Jap demand that he surrender.)

radio gear as we could muster.

The big problem staring me in the face—at the start of what was my short term as commander of the Luzon forces—was, of course, supply. Such as it was, I had no control over it—which irked me a bit. MacArthur had left the matter of Bataan supplies in the hands of Brig. Gen. Lewis Beebe, over on Corregidor.

So on March 15 I went over to The Rock to see Beebe. It was, as I knew it would be, a fruitless visit. I came back to Bataan with a heart made heavier by the fact that I now had to tell my men that their rations—already cut to the starvation quota of one half of a Filipino ration per man—would now have to be cut by another third in order for us to exist until April 10.

That was the day the last of the bony horses of the 26th Cavalry were shot and cut up.

Between March 15 and 20 I spent much of my time with the men, then using up the majority of what was left of our artillery shells and doing what they could to throw off balance the impending Jap attack by means of hit-and-run patrol action.

I spent some time with Parker to tell him what he instinctively knew: That when the blow fell it would fall hardest on his 2d Corps. The shift of Jap troops to Parker's side of Bataan was gaining momentum every day, my patrols reported.

Late on the night of March 20-21, three days after the radio told us that MacArthur had reached Australia safely, my phone rang. It was Beebe calling, but the connection was very bad. I thought I heard him say something like, "I've got a nice piece of news for you, General," but that

KEEP DECENT GOVERNMENT

Boston American, Oct. 18-3

Britain Seen in Grip Of Totalitarian Bloc

Special to the Boston Evening American

LONDON, Oct. 18—Britain's labor government was embarked on the road to Socialism today, armed with a five-year plan giving it almost unlimited powers over control of the nation's economy. Although the government's new powers were not clearly defined because of the vague wording of the legislation that extends wartime economic regulations for five years, debate in Parliament provided some clues to the sweeping authority given the laborites.

Conservative Beverley Baxter described this new far-reaching Labor legislation as having "the hall mark of coming totalitarianism."

Eden, during the debate, indirectly warned the powers which the Labor Government was demanding were a threat to democratic processes.

The Daily Telegraph reacted editorially, by saying:

"The five-year plan is essentially part of the Socialist system and will get fatter, and not thinner, as the system runs into difficulties."

The government can, if it desires, continue to exercise compulsory direction over British labor.

Oliver Lyttleton, former Minister of Production in the coalition government, declared during debate that it will be possible to dictate prices or wages during the next five years, "and even say what fee a barrister could charge for his brief."

Home Secretary J. Chuter Ede served notice that the Labor government will be prepared, if necessary, to take over control of any industry which fails to obey regulations in respect to its operation.

"We are determined," he said, "that we are not going to be obstructed in our efforts to place this country where, in our opinion, it ought to be in regard to social comfort at home, the starting up of export trade, or any problems that may arise during the reconstruction period."

"We asked for a mandate to be able to do this and on July 26 we obtained it. We intend to carry it out."

The government, which already has announced plans for nationalization of the Bank of England, has cautiously refused to define the extent of the regulations that may be imposed. And because of the loosely-worded legislation, the government may interpret its powers in its own way.

This labor request was the subject of lengthy debate in Commons, where Eden demanded that the government's powers be restricted to two years at a time.

500,000 Strike, 30 Die in Riots In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 18 (AP)

—Nationwide strike by 500,000 members of the General Confederation of Workers who supported Col. Juan Peron, former vice-president, in a new surge to power, today brought nearly to a stop Argentina's industrial and commercial activity. Thirty were reported dead and many wounded in rioting.

At the same time a high source said the Argentine high seas fleet had moved out of its base at Puerto Belgrano, 500 miles south of Buenos Aires.

Adm. Hector Vernengo Lima, a leader of the movement which ousted Peron on Oct. 9, was thrown out of office yesterday.

The newspaper La Prensa printed an unconfirmed report that Vernengo Lima and other high Navy chiefs were aboard the minesweeper Drummond.

Peron forced the formation of a cabinet of his supporters and friends, and hailed the strike called in his behalf as celebrating "a day of glory for the workers."

President Edelmiro Farrell has tossed aside a cabinet submitted by Juan Alvarez as attorney-general, thrown out Alvarez himself, reinstated several members of his deposed cabinet, and before a vast crowd hailed Peron.

Hi Yi, Indians! Summer's Here

Indian summer, with its sunlit skies and high temperatures, arrived in Boston today and the weatherman predicted more of the same for Friday.

The mercury was expected to rise into the 70's before sundown and the lowest tonight will be near 54, according to Mark T. Nesmith, weather bureau meteorologist.

Nesmith said Bostonians can expect occasional spells of warm sunny weather between now and the first week of November.

JOHN J. BELLA, ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE OFFICER AND DOG Holds pup that bit three soldiers

No Pet Dogs Tossed Off Vet Transport

A published story that live dog mascots of returning servicemen had been tossed into the sea from the decks of the SS Hood Victory in mid-ocean today was declared untrue after a checkup by Army authorities and officials of the Animal Rescue League.

The story, which drew the ire of dog lovers throughout the nation, was investigated here by Brig. Gen. James C. Marshall, commander of Boston Port of Embarkation, and Robert F. Sellar, president of the league.

In a formal Army report, Marshall said one dog had been confined for inspection after it had bitten two men during the trip here from Europe.

That animal now is being held at the Animal Rescue League under observation for possible rabies. Following the incident, according to the Army report, the ship was searched for other animals and a single dog was found and turned over to the ship's medical officer. This animal was dispatched painlessly with chloroform and buried at sea.

Brig. Gen. Marshall's report is as follows:

"After two men had been bitten by a dog the transport commander ordered that the dog be confined for observation and that the ship be searched for dogs. All other dogs discovered were to be taken to the ship's hospital for chloroforming by a ship's surgeon."

"One other dog was discovered in the search of the ship and was turned over to the ship's medical officer. The dog was dispatched and its body thrown overboard. No other dog was thrown overboard."

"The dog which had bitten two men and, while being secured, a third, was turned over on the ship's arrival to the Port of Embarkation medical officer and by him to the Animal Rescue League where it is being held for observation."

"Separate investigation was made by officials of the Animal Rescue League, who were given an opportunity to talk to officers and men who were aboard the SS Hood Victory. It is understood that their investigation brought out the same facts as by the Army investigation as detailed above, and that a statement to that effect is being issued by that society."

Sellar's statement declared: "We are satisfied that no cruelty was perpetrated in connection with the incident on the S. S. Hood Victory when one dog had to be put to death because of suspected rabies."

"Archibald MacDonald, head of our police division, went to Camp Myles Standish to get the facts directly from the men involved, independently of the Army's own investigation into the rumored atrocity."

"The dog was not cruelly drowned as at first reported."

"Shortly after sailing one of the dogs aboard the ship bit three men, identified to us as Lt. James Hunderveede, Gerard Kauppi and Lt. Frank Perri."

"In cases of this sort it is necessary that other dogs which have come in contact with the biter be isolated or put to death, as rabies spreads rapidly."

"After a conference between the ship's captain and doctor and Army officials, it was agreed that the only way of safeguarding the health of all personnel on the ship was to destroy the other dog to guard against possible infection. This was done swiftly and painlessly with chloroform. The biter was isolated and turned over to us upon arrival here for observation so that treatment may be given to the three men in case rabies develop."

"It is regrettable that all the facts were not immediately available and that the public was given the impression a great atrocity was committed."

"We find the Army and Navy could not have acted otherwise in protecting the health of human beings on the ship."

Arnold Sees Anti-Aircraft Helpless Against A-Bomb

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)

—Atomic bombs turned into guided missiles with wings and a television head, can make present anti-aircraft defenses utterly helpless, Gen. Arnold said today.

The commanding general of the Army air forces told Senators at a science hearing that in any next use of the bomb it probably would be launched by aircraft outside anti-aircraft range.

Previous witnesses have talked of shooting down the carrier as a means of defense. Arnold's testimony seemed to cancel that.

Sen. Magnuson (D.) of Washington asked:

"Is there any defense against the atomic bomb as such?"

Arnold: "At the present stage of development, the only defense is to stop it before it starts. It is possible now to take the atom bomb and make it a guided missile, launched from an airplane."

"To launch it from more than 300 miles away (from the target) the only way is by aircraft. It can be changed into a guided missile by putting wings and a television head on it."

"I don't think we have anything at present to prevent such a guided missile from coming in out of range of anti-aircraft."

Arnold said his idea of defense is to create a highly trained, modernly equipped force that will "prevent war and maintain peace."

With such a force—a combination of nations would be needed, he said—"then you don't have to stop it."

Arnold said a highly trained intelligence force was needed also, along with the most powerful striking force you can imagine."

He also called for retaining overseas bases.

ARMY RELEASES GEN. HILL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)

—Brig. Gen. Luther L. Hill, director of the War Department Bureau of Public Relations since April, is being released from the Army.

REUNITED after more than two years, Mrs. Dorothy M. Goodman, Ragel of Ufford st., Dorchester, regained custody today in Suffolk Court of her daughter, Elizabeth L. Goodman, 7, whom she gave up to join the WACS. When she enlisted the child was given to her great-grandmother for care.

Notables in Throng At Paul Curley Rites

Leaders in every walk of life, the clergy, old neighbors and officials of the city and state, today joined with the sorrowing family of Cong. James M. Curley at funeral services at the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes for the latter's eldest son, Paul Gerard Curley.

STOWAWAY BRIDE "COMES HOME"—Happiness wreathes the faces of Donesse Heath Kuhn, English bride who reached this country as a stowaway, landing in Boston, and her husband, Robert Kuhn, who accompanied her on the trip, as she serves him breakfast in their new home in Rochester, N. Y., after she was permitted to stay in the United States.

With 1500 thronging the Jamaica Plain edifice—and nearly that number standing outside—the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James Kelly celebrated a solemn high mass of requiem.

The family of the former governor and mayor were all together save for the youngest Curley son, Francis Curley, S.J., a novitiate at Shadowbrook Seminary, who sat within the sanctuary with the officers for his brother's mass.

The latter included the Rev. John J. Costello as deacon and the Rev. Clarence A. Macksey as sub-deacon.

Seated within the sanctuary during the ritual were more than a score of priests. Included in the group were the Revs. Leo Dore, James A. Barden, Charles A. MacMullen, James Sharry of Gloucester, Peter McKone of Shadowbrook, Thomas L. McLaughlin, Thomas Galvin, Harold Kirley, Richard A. Dea of British West Indies; Lemuel J. Vaughn of Boston College, Bernard Tobin, Coughlin Kelly, Stephen A. Moran of Plymouth, Stephen K. Shea of Boston College, T. J. McCarthy of St. Mary's Church, North End, Joseph L. Barrett of Boston College, George L. Lawlor, Cornelius J. Donovan of St. Monica's Church, South Boston, and Francis J. Keany of St. Anthony's Church, Cohasset.

Cong. Curley, his head bowed in grief, was the first of the family to enter the church. He looked neither to the right or left as he passed slowly through long lines of silent mourners in the street outside, and past the hundreds—many who once had been his political enemies—who were gathered inside in a tribute to both father and son.

On his arm was Lillian Phillips, Paul's ex-wife.

The couple were followed by Mrs. Curley, escorted by her son, S. C. Richard Dennis, and by another of Curley's sons, Lt. George Curley, USNR.

Then came Mrs. Mary Curley Donnelly, Paul's only sister, to be followed by Lt. Leo Curley, USNR, still another Curley son.

Following the mass communal service, which was held at Old Calvary Cemetery, at the family lot where rests Paul's mother, who died 10 years ago.

Pallbearers at the mass were Dr. Martin J. English, Edward W. Shay, Bernard C. Marvin, Edward J. Hoy, John T. Dea, Alfred S. Smith, Charles F. Murphy, and Charles E. Marion.

Among the attendants were Gov. Tobin and his brother, Timothy, and three of the men who now seek the office of mayor—Mayor Kerrigan, William A. Reilly and John Sawtelle.

Among the hundreds of other mourners were Police Com. Sullivan, Dist. Atty. Foley, Fire Chief Pope, Traffic Com. William Hickey and Sen. Chester A. Dolan.

Others included Administrator of State Finance Thomas H. Buckley, State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley, Judge Leo Doherty, Court Clerk Theodore Glynn, former Lt. Gov. Kelly, Labor Commissioner James Moriarty, Dr. James Manary, Park Commissioner William P. Long, School Committee member Michael Ward and Daniel McDewitt, State Rep. Daniel Casey and many more.

Ushers at the mass were Judge Daniel J. Gillen, Joseph J. Connors, Joseph F. Timilty, John T. Murray and Arthur T. O'Leary.

Young Curley died in his sleep of a heart attack early Sunday morning. He had been under treatment for a long time for a cardiac condition—a condition that had barred him to military service despite 27 attempts to join his brothers either in the Navy, Army, Coast Guard or Merchant Marine.

Imogene Freed in Killing Of Sailor in Connecticut

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Oct. 18 (AP)—The charge of manslaughter placed against Mrs. Imogene Dumas Stevens, 24-year-old wife of a New Canaan Army major, who shot and killed a Norwalk sailor last June, was dismissed today in Superior Court.

Lorin W. Willis, Fairfield County state attorney, asked for the nolle, telling the court he had been "forced to conclude that there is reasonable doubt, or more" regarding Mrs. Stevens' guilt.

Coroner Theodore E. Steiner had held in a finding that the former Texas girl who married Paratroop Maj. G. Ralsey Stevens 3d, her second husband, two years ago, was criminally responsible for the death of Albert Kovacs, 19, killed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milton at New Canaan.

The coroner said the shooting occurred "in an aura of sex re-creation, beer and window-smashing."

Neither Mrs. Stevens nor her counsel was in court when Judge Ernest A. Inglis disposed of the case.

Mrs. Stevens insisted from the time of the shooting that she acted in self defense after Kovacs grappled with her when she ordered him and his brother out of the Milton home. She thought they were intruders, she said, not knowing they had come to call on Miss Faith Coombs, who was caring for the Milton children.

The slain sailor's brother asserted she fired a shot without warning while standing at some distance.

Willis told the court ballistics experts would show the pistol was pressed against Kovacs' body when it was discharged. There was also evidence that Mrs. Stevens' dress was torn and there were marks above her eye and on her throat.

Willis told the court: "It is the law of this State that one may use such force as is necessary to protect a husband from bodily injury. I am compelled to concede that the evidence in the case indicates strongly that this woman was acting in self defense."

"I am of the opinion that the State could not convict her . . . and in view of these facts that the State would not be justified in putting her on trial."

Mrs. Stevens' attorney telegraphed the news to his client at Columbus, O., where Maj. Stevens is stationed.

Ice Pick Killing
Victim Foretold
Her Death

PONTIAC, Mich., Oct. 18 (AP)—Police investigation of the mutilation murder of Mrs. Lydia Thompson, 47, of Detroit, centered today on a carpenter's story that the woman was stabbed with an ice pick three weeks before she was slain last Thursday.

Oakland County Prosecutor Donald C. Noggle said the new evidence was offered by H. W. Baker of Highland Park, who told authorities he did some carpentry work last month at Mrs. Thompson's luxurious summer home at Orchard Lake.

Noggle gave this version of Baker's story: The carpenter said Mrs. Thompson told him she had been stabbed by a man and Baker quoted her as saying, "Don't be surprised if they find me in the country with an ice pick pushed through me."

Noggle disclosed Baker had given him the name of the man whom Mrs. Thompson named as her assailant, but said the evidence did not seem sufficient basis for a warrant.

Louis V. Thompson, 46, wealthy Detroit auto dealer and estranged husband of the victim, is still in custody, but no charge has been placed against him.

Thompson today offered a reward of $1000 for clues leading to the arrest and conviction of his wife's slayer. The Detroit News has offered a similar reward.

Butter Up 5 Cts.
Starting Nov. 8

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—A jump of five to six cents a pound in the retail cost of butter starting Nov. 8 was announced today by the government.

Stabilization Director John C. Collet said this will result from cancellation Oct. 31 of a government subsidy of five cents a pound to processors.

In a statement issued jointly with Collet, Price Administrator Bowles said the increase would not boost the over-all cost of living. He reasoned:

"Declines in consumer prices have continued. The Bureau of Labor statistics index of consumer prices dropped 2-10 of 1 per cent from July 15 to Aug. 15."

"The increase in butter will be neutralized by this over-all decline, plus a drop in the price of potatoes and other items."

Reds Spurn Far East Commission Hearing

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Irresponsible British quarters reported today Russia has refused to attend the meeting of the Far Eastern advisory commission in Washington Tuesday. Russia has been holding out for a control commission in Tokyo similar to the one in Berlin.

Sec. Byrnes in Washington has announced the advisory commission meeting will be held whether Russians attend or not.

Divorcee, Man Pal Quizzed in Breaks

An attractive 24-year-old Back Bay divorcee and her boy friend of the past few months, Leon LaValley, 24, of Capen st., Dorchester, today were grilled in Cambridge by police of a dozen communities in connection with breaks that netted thousands of dollars.

The divorcee, ex-wife of a Hamilton Army lieutenant now in Tokyo, today was taken on a tour of Greater Boston homes that have been burglarized, while LaValley—held on warrants charging armed robbery and burglary—was questioned by inspectors from Newton, Waltham, Watertown, Belmont, Brookline and Portland, Me.

LaValley and the young woman, a police claim served as his chauffeur, were picked up by Cambridge police when she tried to hire a speedy machine at an auto renting agency.

Warned to be on the lookout, attendants called Cambridge police, who seized the woman and arrested LaValley in the street outside.

Keys in the latter's possession unlocked boxes at Harvard subway and South Station, where authorities found four revolvers and suitcases containing loot identified as taken in a number of Greater Boston breaks.

The divorcee told police she met LaValley in a South End cafe and had driven some of his friends until she read that one of them, a Quincy man, had been arrested and charged with robbery. She added it was too late to quit then so she went to Portland, Me., and then to New York when Boston got "too hot." Her arrest came only a few hours after she said she and LaValley returned here from New York.

Both will be arraigned in East Cambridge court tomorrow.

Chlorine Befogs Providence Area

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 18 (AP)—A great cloud of chlorine gas enveloped scores of homes on the East Side today, permeated a public school, and sent fire department rescue squads through the area in search of possible casualties.

Residents were warned to close all windows until the gas was dissipated. No one was made ill.

George W. Wilson, president of the George E. Wilson Co., said the gas escaped from a drain pipe at the company's chemical plant.

It formed a greenish-white cloud that slowed traffic, caused an alarm of fire to be sounded, and spread uneasiness among hundreds.

London Hop Feature Of Boston Air-Week

Gov. Tobin today proclaimed the week of Oct. 21-27 International Air Transport Week to mark the "inauguration of transatlantic plane service between Boston and Europe" as American Airlines officials perfected plans for the first flight Tuesday.

The Governor said the flight "brings to fruition the hopes and plans of the people of Massachusetts that our Commonwealth shall remain foremost among the transportation centers of the world."

The historic flight will be made from Bedford Army Airport because Logan International Airport is not yet completed.

Gov. Tobin said he hoped to be among the 12 passengers making the inaugural trip to London. His plans hinged on the duration of the flood control conference of New England governors scheduled for Monday and Tuesday at Hartford. He said he would go if the meeting ended in time.

A huge 4-engine DC-4 land plane, which will be used on the line will be christened at Logan Airport Sunday at 3 p. m. It will be named "Flagship New England" in recognition of this area's important place in global air transportation.

The principal speakers at the ceremonies will be Gov. Tobin. Other New England Governors have been invited.

Before the leave-taking Tuesday, a luncheon will be given in the Chamber of Commerce build-

Utility Walkout Hits 2 Million Residents

Electrical power workers struck over a wide area of industrial Michigan today but the current was kept flowing into the homes, offices and factories of the more than 2000 affected communities in which dwell over 2,000,000 persons.

Emergency crews of supervisory employees manned the plants of the Consumers Power Co. after 2250 operating employees affiliated with the CIO's State Utility Workers' Council had walked out in a wage dispute.

Michigan's 6000 state troops and 400 State Police were placed on the alert by Gov. Harry F. Kelly but no disorder was reported.

Operators of boilers and turbines in the huge Zilwaukee plant near Saginaw, which furnishes power for Saginaw valley, remained away from their jobs, but the company reported the plant operating "as best we can."

The utility workers involved in the dispute, over a 30 cents an hour wage increase demand, supply power for nearly all Michigan's major cities except Detroit.

This utility dispute was the latest major controversy on the country's labor front. Across the nation the workers away from their jobs by stoppages was around 460,000.

This included the 216,000 soft coal miners, who yesterday were ordered by John L. Lewis to return to work Monday.

Another trouble spot was the strike of AFL longshoremen at New York harbor. Violence flared near several piers along the sprawling waterfront yesterday but police broke up the disturbances.

A new labor dispute involved 8000 CIO United steel workers in the Crane Co. plant in Chicago. Five hundred policemen went to the plant yesterday after workers started a sitdown strike but went back to their stations after the workers voluntarily left the building.

In the 32-week-old AFL jurisdictional dispute involving movie workers in Hollywood, Eric Johnston, new president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Ass'n of America, offered J. A. Krug, chairman of the War Production Board, a $75,000-a-year job as vice-president of the association, to handle labor affairs. Krug promised to give Johnston an answer within a few days.

Arbitration officers of the Eastern Mass. Street Railway Co. and the bus drivers union were to meet at the Hotel Statler today in the third and perhaps final discussion of wage differences that caused a three-day strike and ended in seizure of the railway by the state.

Gen. Cole, chairman of the state board of arbitration, who is acting as chairman, reported that progress at yesterday's meeting was "very satisfactory."

Frank J. Murray, appointed administrator of the railway by Gov. Tobin, announced that the railway will be returned to the trustees as soon as a wage agreement is reached.

Bible Reading Gave Navy Men Courage, Says Nimitz

Special to the Evening American
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The Bible served as a "source of comfort and courage" for Navy men during the war, Fleet Adm. Nimitz said in greeting National Bible Week.

In a message to R. Adm. Belknap, chairman of the laymen's nation committee which sponsors the annual Bible observance, Adm. Nimitz said:

"Few books have been more widely read by the officers and men of the Navy and Marine Corps during the war in the Pacific than the Holy Bible.

"It has been a source of comfort and courage to many and an important factor in maintaining the high morale of the naval organization."

Joining Adm. Nimitz in hailing National Bible Week, which opened Monday, Gen. Vandegrift, commandant of the Marine Corps, declared:

"Deep and abiding well-springs of religious faith gave to the men of our armed forces that limitless courage with which they marched against the forces of tyranny and gained the triumph of World War II."

"Throughout the ranks of the Marines—and all branches of the service—our fighting men derived constant comfort and inspiration from the Bibles they carried into battle. These Bibles will not be laid aside on their return."

Millions in Gems In New Jap Cache

TOKYO, Oct. 18 (AP)—Hidden Japanese fortunes in diamonds and precious metals were scooped up today by American occupation forces, who moved at the same time to stamp out one of Japan's great sources of wealth—the illicit narcotics industry.

Allied headquarters from narcotics stocks in Japan and Korea, and issued production of narcotics-yielding plants, estimating by that one more to have cut off more than 50 per cent of the world's illicit narcotics traffic.

As a precautionary measure, possibly in view of the winter of cold and hunger facing the Japanese—American troops in a house-to-house search confiscated more than 20 truckloads of hidden Japanese arms and ammunition.

Another occupation force check, made by Brig. Gen. Elliot R. Thorpe of Westley, R. I., disclosed that Emperor Hirohito's palace had been practically destroyed during the war, but not by fire-bombing Superfortresses as reported. Thorpe said the palace was razed by fire blown in from buildings burning outside the imperial compound.

More than $30,000,000 worth of diamonds—largely government-owned and many obtained through deceit of the Japanese—people were discovered today in cheap quart thermos bottles in a safety deposit box.

Millions of dollars' worth of gold and silver bullion began moving in U. S. Army trucks under armed escort from the bomb-battered government mint to the Bank of Japan.

Reds Overruled On Territory Plan

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Overriding objections of Russia, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, the United Nations executive committee today recommended the creation of a temporary trusteeship committee to handle international territories. The vote was 7 to 3. The Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko startled the committee with his opposition. He said the United Nations charter did not provide for a temporary committee. He gave other reasons. Delegates said privately they believed the Russian stand on Italian colonies might be a motive.

Adlai Stevenson, American deputy delegate, said he thought a temporary committee would speed the formation of trusteeship.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Russia, emerging as a Western Mediterranean influence for a time sought to bar Franco Spain from a voice in the management of Tangier, it was disclosed officially today.

The Soviets finally agreed, however, to an American-British-French statement that while they did not like Franco either they did not think the Spanish nation and people should be ruled out of an area in which they had immediate and historic interests.

LIGHTS OUT IN PARIS

PARIS, Oct. 18 (INS)—Falling water power today forced a curtailment of Parisians' use of electricity. Power was off every second hour during the day and every second half-hour after 5 p. m.

Attlee Stalls On Palestine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Truman said today the United States has asked Britain to open Palestine to 100,000 Jewish refugees, but Prime Minister Attlee did not want to admit that many.

The whole matter, he added, still is under consideration.

The President made this disclosure at a news conference at which he also said no additional "Big Three" meeting is contemplated to settle the stalemate which developed from the London council of foreign ministers.

The President also said it would be a good idea if the Japanese people had an opportunity to decide the fate of their Emperor in a free election.

Reds Strip Breslau of Arms, Cattle

BRESLAU, Poland, Oct. 16 (delayed) (AP)—Russia is moving livestock and everything else detachable to the East from this section of Poland.

Along highways there are long convoys of Russian repatriates guarded by soldiers. Trucks and carts are loaded with furniture and have horses and cattle hitched to the rear.

One sees another type of cargo traveling westward upon the railways — carloads of anti-aircraft guns and ammunition.

In this once great city of the Greater German Reich, Poles are gradually assuming control of affairs subject to Soviet approval.

It is estimated there are 100,000 Red soldiers in the Breslau sector. Approximately 200,000 Germans who have not yet been repatriated are still here. Poles number only 40,000 to 60,000.

The city—renamed Wroclaw by the Poles—is in a state of semi-confusion. Gunfire rattles through the streets at night and there is intrigue by day.

After dark armed soldiers guard the Hotel Monopol, only hostelry in town capable of receiving guests. The Poles go home early, for many Germans are believed to retain arms. Shootings and killings are frequent.

Everywhere I have gone on a 1000-mile tour of Poland, I have found red flags and strong Soviet garrisons. Breslau is no exception.

Food is scarce in comparison to Warsaw and battered Breslau has learned to know the full fury of war. Buildings which escaped partial or total destruction are few. It will take several years to rebuild the city.

4 Children Ask $100,000 For Theft of Father's Love

CHICAGO, Oct. 18 (INS)—Judge Evan A. Evans of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals expressed belief that children, as the victims of broken marriages, have the right to sue the "other man" or "other woman" for damages.

The judge's remarks were made at a hearing on an appeal by four school-age children of Mrs. Olive Means Daily of Oil City, Pa.

The children—Barbara, Ellen, Mary and Wilfred—brought a $100,000 damage suit against Mrs. Marian Lammers Parker, 42, of Chicago, wealthy wife of a naval officer. They charge she enticed their father, Wilfred J. Daily, 49, away from their Oil City home, depriving them of his affection and care.

U. S. District Judge William J. Campbell previously dismissed the suit—first of its kind—for lack of a precedent.

Walter W. Rose, Jr., attorney for Mrs. Parker, said the law provides no relief for children in such cases.

"Why not?" asked Judge Evans, who was hearing the case with Judges Will M. Sparks and J. Earl Major.

"Suppose the woman had kidnapped the man," said Judge Major. "The children would be injured, and couldn't they sue?"

The judges took the appeal under advisement.

The children's mother has a separate $300,000 suit against Mrs. Parker pending.

Divers Examine Rescued Ship

Freed from the rocks off Graves Light in Boston Harbor by five tugboats, the Army ammunition freighter Joshua W. Alexander was tied up at the New Haven railroad docks today while divers examined the hull to determine the extent of her injuries.

The freighter had unloaded a cargo of surplus ammunition at Searsport, Me., and was bound for New York when she ran aground yesterday while attempting to pick up a coastal pilot.

Gin of pre-war quality made with pre-war imported botanicals

- 1 Today Hiram Walker brings you gin made with the same imported herbs, roots and berries used in the making of Hiram Walker's pre-war gin.
- 2 And remember, between Repeal and Pearl Harbor Americans bought more Walker-made gin than any other kind.

Juniper from Italy! Harvesters "spank" the prized juniper bush of the Apennines with sticks, to shake its ripe, unmatchable berries onto sheets laid carefully on the ground beneath. These—and ALL the herbs, roots and berries used in making Hiram Walker's Gin—come from a supply imported before the war. It's these imported botanicals, plus 100% American grain spirits, that give Hiram Walker's Gin its real, pre-war quality.

This Is My Story ★ ★ By Gen. Jonathan Wainwright

was so improbable under the circumstances.

"I can't hear you," I shouted into the phone. I heard his voice dimly again, so I yelled across the clearing to Johnny Pugh to pick up his extension phone and try to hear what Beebe was saying.

I heard Pugh pick up his phone and say, "Hello, what is it, Gen. Beebe?"

And then, as if from a thousand miles away, I heard him say, "Tell Gen. Wainwright that he has been promoted to lieutenant general and..."

"What's that, Beebe?" I cut in.

"A wire has just come in from the War Department promoting you."

"Yes, yes... go ahead."

"...promoting you to lieutenant general. The troops in the Philippines are to be called hereafter the United States Forces in the Philippines, and you're designated as commander-in-chief. Can you come over the first thing in the morning? I'll send a crash boat for you."

"I'll be on the dock at Mariveles at 8 o'clock," I told him. I did not sleep much that night.

The next morning, March 21, I got up early, took out a clean shirt, removed two stars off an old shirt and pinned one on each shoulder. A soldier could wish for a little more ceremony when he gets another star, I guess. Yet it was a thrill, I admit.

I called Pugh, Dooley and Sgt. Carroll and went over to Corregidor. Beebe met me at the dock and we went directly to MacArthur's old office, a cubbyhole in Malinta Tunnel. Beebe produced the War Department message and in reading it I noticed that the order did not say "armed forces" but said "You are assigned to command all United States forces in the Philippines," which included the tiny Navy and its men.

I therewith issued my first order, telling of my new assignment—an announcement which confused MacArthur when he received it by radio, and one which later was used against me by Gen. Homma, when I tried to duck his demand that I surrender all Philippine forces.

MacArthur promptly messaged me, asking me why I had assumed command of all U. S. forces in the islands. He had not been informed of this change, so I sent him the text of the War Department order.

I went to work with what remained of the old and first-class staff of Corregidor officers. MacArthur had taken a nucleus of 15 top men with him, to begin his long march back. The MacArthur party was made up, in addition to Mrs. MacArthur, their small son and his ayah, of:

Maj. Gen. Sutherland; Brig. Gen. Richard J. Marshall, deputy chief of staff; Col. Charles P. Stivers, asst. chief of staff, G-1; Col. Charles A. Willoughby, asst. chief of staff, G-2; Capt. Joseph McMicking, Air Corps, asst. G-2; Brig. Gen. Spencer B. Akin, signal officer; Lt. Col. Joe R. Sherr, asst. signal officer; Brig. Gen. William F. Marquat, antiaircraft officer; Brig. Gen. Harold H. George, air officer; Brig. Gen. Hugh J. Casey, engineer; Lt. Col. Sidney L. Huff, aide-de-camp; Lt. Col. Francis H. Wilson, aide-de-camp; Lt. Col. Legrande A. Diller, aide-de-camp; Maj. Charles H. Morhouse, Medical Corps, and M-Sgt. Paul P. Rogers, secretary.

But I had good men left,

men who were of the same disposition as I was two days earlier when I received the first Jap demand that we surrender.

The demand was dropped from planes over Bataan. It was dropped in thousands of empty beer cans, to each of which was attached red and white ribbons to make spotting easier. In the cans were the demands, addressed to me and saying, in part, "If you do not reply to this by special messenger within three days we will feel free to act in any way at all."

It was signed "The Commanders in Chief, Imperial Japanese Army and Navy Forces in the Philippines."

I informed MacArthur and the War Department, but made no reply to the Japs. No reply was necessary.

TOMORROW—Wainwright fights for food for his starving men on Bataan, receives an audacious food-capturing plan from Gen. MacArthur, and hears from Bataan that Maj. Gen. Edward P. King fears he will be forced to surrender.

24 Nazi Chiefs Will Go on Trial

persons, piracy on the high seas, taking and killing of hostages, plunder of public and private property, wanton destruction of cities, towns and villages and devastation not justified by military necessity.

The first public session of the tribunal proceeded smoothly and in the atmosphere of any well-organized court. It sat in the Allied Control Authority building where the Germans condemned some of those who plotted against Hitler's life in July, 1944.

The court sat for an hour and most of the time was consumed while translators interpreted every spoken word into English, Russian, French and German.

The leaders are accused of a gigantic "plan or conspiracy," dating from 1921, to rule Germany and conquer other lands they wanted.

Their strategy: Treachery and terror first, finally a deliberate aggressive war.

The bulk of the indictment is a recital of horrors.

The Nazis and their high command associates are blamed officially for the brutal slaughter of about 10,000,000 helpless persons, civilians and prisoners of war.

About 4,000,000 were slain at Auschwitz concentration camp alone, the indictment says, and another 1,500,000 in notorious Maidanek.

Of 9,600,000 Jews who came under Nazi domination in and out of Germany, the document asserts, 5,700,000 disappeared, "most of them deliberately put to death by Nazi conspirators."

The Nazis and their associates are accused also of:

Torturing civilians to obtain information.

Putting civilians under "protective arrest" in the "most unhealthy and inhumane conditions."

Mass murders of defenseless people by gassing and shooting, of incredibly cruel "scientific" experiments on women.

Drawing the blood of children shooting hostages, ill-treating and murdering war prisoners and plundering or wiping out by wholesale destruction the cities and towns of lands they occupied.

"American prisoners, officers and men, were murdered in Normandy during the summer of 1944 and in the Ardennes in December, 1944," the official document declares. "American prisoners were starved, beaten and otherwise mistreated in numerous slatag (prison camps), in Germany and in the occupied countries, particularly in 1943, 1944 and 1945."

The indictment was drawn up by prosecutors of the four Allied Nations, including Justice Robert H. Jackson for the United States. It was released simultaneously in the Allied capitals and in Germany.

The 24 men named as defendants were the highest in Hitler's government to be taken alive. Among them are Goering, Hess, Von Ribbentrop, Ley, all key Hitler officials; General Keitel and Jodl; Admiral Doenitz and Raeder; industrialist Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach; Financier Schacht.

Against most of them the indictment makes four sweeping general accusations: (1) Crimes against peace in starting the war (2) war crimes in violation of the accepted laws of war, (3) crimes against humanity (which includes the Jewish persecutions) and (4) conspiring together to commit these crimes.

After these four general counts are laid down with details of supporting evidence, the names of the individuals are listed with the specific counts on which each is to be tried.

Today's indictment traces the great Nazi conspiracy from the emergence of Hitler as a political leader in 1921, through his election as chancellor of the German republic in 1933 and his suppression of all opposition in Germany immediately thereafter. The Nazi party is described as the "central core" of the conspiracy.

Three aims are attributed to the Nazis:

To destroy the treaty of Versailles and its restrictions on German military power.

To regain German territories lost in World War I and other European territories occupied by "racial Germans," such as the Sudetenland, and to acquire "living space" in Europe and elsewhere.

The indictment takes up crimes against humanity country by country, including the prewar persecutions of Christians, Jews and political opponents of the Nazis in Germany itself. It declares:

"In November, 1938, by orders of the chief of the Gestapo, anti-Jewish demonstrations all over Germany took place. Jewish property was destroyed, 30,000 Jews were arrested and sent to concentration camps and their property confiscated. Among other mass murders of Jews were the following:

"Two thousand were shot in an anti-tank ditch at Mineralnye Vodi. 4300 other Jews were shot in the same ditch. 60,000 Jews were shot on an island on the Dvina, near Riga. 20,000 Jews were shot at Kitzk. 32,000 Jews were shot at Sarny. 60,000 Jews were shot at Kiev and Dnepropetrovsk. Thousands of Jews were gassed weekly by means of gas wagons which broke down from overwork.

"As the Germans retreated before the Soviet army they exterminated Jews rather than allow them to be liberated. Many concentration camps and Ghettos were kept in which Jews were incarcerated and tortured, starved, subjected to merciless atrocities and finally exterminated. About 70,000 Jews were exterminated in Yugoslavia.

Fantastic forms of torture are set forth in the indictment:

"Bad treatment, pseudo-scientific experiments (sterilization of women at Auschwitz and at Ravensbruck, study of the evolution of cancer of the womb at Auschwitz, of typhus at Buchenwald, anatomical research at Natzweiler, heart injections at Buchenwald, bone grafting and muscular excisions at Ravensbruck, etc.), gas chambers, gas wagons and crematorium ovens."

"In the Gnanov camp 200,000 peaceful citizens were exterminated. The most refined methods of cruelty were employed in this extermination, such as disemboweling and freezing of human beings in tubs of water; mass shootings took place to the accompaniment of the music of an orchestra recruited from the persons interned."

In the Ozarichi region of Biorussia, the indictment says, the Germans set up the concentration camp without shelter and placed in them tens of thousands of persons. They then added people "from typhus hospitals intentionally for the purpose of infecting the other persons interned and for spreading the disease in territories from which the Germans were being driven by the Red Army."

Among dozens of other murder centers listed in Russia is mentioned the Crimea, where "peaceful citizens were gathered on barges, taken out to sea and drowned, over 144,000 persons being exterminated in this manner."

"Along with adults," the indictment says, "the Nazi conspirators mercilessly destroyed even children. They killed them with their parents in groups and alone."

They killed them in children's homes and hospitals, burying the living in the graves, throwing them into flames, stabbing them with bayonets, poisoning them, conducting experiments upon them, extracting their blood for the use of the German army, throwing them into prison and Gestapo torture chambers and concentration camps where the children died from hunger, torture and epidemic diseases."

The indictment says the Germans carted off to slave labor many millions of citizens from the occupied countries and forced prisoners of war into work connected with the provisions of the Geneva convention.

France suffered heavily in this way and the number of Russian citizens deported to slavery was put at about 4,000,000.

France and Russia also lost heavily to Nazi plunder. The total lost in plunder, 257,020,024,000 francs ($5,140,400,480) of private wealth and 55,000,100,000 francs ($1,100,000,000) in state-owned wealth. Russia's total material loss due to plunder and destruction was put at 679,000,000,000 rubles ($36,560,700,000 at the current diplomatic exchange rate.)

Gen. Marshall Raps Navy In Unified Command Plea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP) Gen. Marshall, pleading for a unified postwar Army-Navy department, said today the Navy neither "consulted nor informed" the Army when it made its post-war plans.

The chief of staff told the Senate military committee it had been exceedingly difficult during the war to get agreement on conflicting ideas of Army and Navy leaders.

That's why, he said, a mere continuation of the wartime joint chiefs of staff isn't enough.

The general declared that under separate commands the War and Navy Departments would compete with each other in peacetime for congressional appropriations.

Marshall said this country must have a constant powerful armed force to impress the "political leaders and the professional soldiers of other nations, both friendly and unfriendly, that no act of aggression against the United States, however sudden, could succeed."

"The national security," he said, "is made secure by the sun or rather the combination of the three great arms—the land, air and naval forces. The urgent need is for an overall, not a piecemeal appraisal of what is required to solve the single problem of national security with the greatest economy compatible with requirements."

Marshall also told the Senators that this country no longer can depend on "coffee cup" intelligence work but must have a worldwide espionage system. He urged maintenance of an overall intelligence setup as an adjunct to the proposed merger.

Reich Plan Told By Morgenthau

Five million Germans in the Ruhr Valley should be moved onto farms as the first major step in the de-industrialization of Germany, former Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, author of the Morgenthau plan, told Boston University students in the Hayden Memorial hall of the B. U. School of Business Administration today.

This should be followed by total de-industrialization of the Saar, he stated. Big estates of the Junkers should be cut up into farm pastures dug up, forests cut down to provide fuel for the land and end forever Germany's war-making potential, said.

Madeiras Gets 3 to 5 Years

James Madeiras, 23, former New Bedford amateur boxer, today was convicted in Suffolk Superior Court on a charge of attempted criminal assault on a South End woman and sentenced to State Prison for three to five years.

The conviction was reported in a sealed verdict opened before Chief Justice John P. Higgins.

The prosecution charged that Madeiras lured Mrs. Lillian Segersiedt, 23, of Appleton st., South End, into a doorway on Dec. 19 and tried to attack her.

Miss Geraldine Macre, 21, of Appleton st., a defense witness, testified that Madeiras was with her the night of the alleged attack.

Madeiras is also awaiting trial on an indictment charging him with severely beating Miss Lila Cheever, 73-year-old South End woman, in an attempt to rob her.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 16 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

"WHEN I became President it was perfectly apparent that the key by which the way could be opened to national progress was constructive economy. Only by the use of that policy could the high rates of taxation, which were retarding our development and prosperity, be diminished, and the enormous burden of our public debt be reduced."

SCIENCE AND SECURITY

INSTEAD OF "sharing" the secret of the atomic bomb with Soviet Russia—as propagandists are frantically inciting us to do—the United States should guard the secret closely and pursue a national policy of scientific research and development which will enable us to retain the long lead that we now have over Moscow.

This—as expressed before a subcommittee of the United States Senate—is the opinion of Dr. Irving Langmuir of the General Electric Laboratories.

Dr. Langmuir spoke with great authority.

Not only is he one of America's most distinguished men of science, but he also knows the status of science in Russia by personal visitation and inquiry.

It is not necessary to PROVE that Soviet Russia WANTS the atomic secret, and intends to have it.

If this country foolishly GIVES her the secret, Russia will be in position to utilize it almost at once.

If Russia is compelled to discover the secret, she will—in Dr. Langmuir's opinion—succeed eventually in doing so.

Moreover, the effort will be only a phase of Soviet scientific development which, if we do not maintain our own progress, will put Soviet Russia ahead of us in the entire field.

Dr. Langmuir said:

"We have a lead of only a few years, three to five years, in the matter of the atomic bomb, and at best not more than 10 years in which to keep from being overtaken and surpassed in scientific discovery and achievement by others, SPECIFICALLY BY RUSSIA, which at this moment is planning a FAR MORE EXTENSIVE RESEARCH PROGRAM IN SCIENCE THAN WE ARE."

GREAT BRITAIN probably will be the next country to produce an atomic bomb, the scientist explained, but Russia will be a "close second."

There is no menace to America in British progress.

In point of fact, Great Britain and Canada were our ACTUAL PARTNERS in the atomic bomb undertaking.

But Soviet Russia, with her Communist ideology and her ambitious and unscrupulous imperialism, was not taken into the secret.

And the same discretion must prevent our disclosing the secret to her now.

Likewise, science has become more than ever vital to our national defense and consequently it must be our unceasing purpose to retain primacy in science.

GENERAL KENNEY

BOSTON, New England and the whole country unite in celebrating the homecoming of Gen. George Kenney.

As General MacArthur said, this distinguished resident of Brookline is "unquestionably one of the best qualified air officers in the world."

Throughout the Pacific conflict he proved it by his exemplary courage and extraordinary ability as a commander and strategist.

He returns, therefore, not only as a conquering hero but as a great leader whose talents and training contributed immeasurably to the shortening of the war and the saving of thousands of American lives.

There is much for General Kenney to do.

His place in the peace will be fully as important as his position in the war.

RECENT DISPATCH reported the marriage of a man 100 years old. A Bostonian wants to know if this is the record for aged bridegrooms. It isn't. Thomas Parr, of England, was married for the second time at the age of 120. He was 80 when married for the first time. When Parr, evidently a gay old bird, was 105 years old his wife accused him of running around with other women. He was born in 1483 and died at the age of 152. He is buried in Westminster Abbey.

HOUSES AND WOMEN: In the 1944 national election 53 per cent of the votes were cast by women. It is claimed most women vote the same ticket as their husbands. That is probably true. However, I know a Republican whose wife is a Democrat. They have some very heated political arguments. But their marriage is a very happy one.

PLEASE NOTE: When powder is needed to hold false teeth in place it is an indication that said teeth are not properly made and were fitted poorly. Why is it seemingly intelligent people will toss a lot of money away throwing parties, buying liquor for other people and trying to pick a longshot and then economize on such a vitally important thing as dentistry?

GET RICCI: It has been said one of the best ways to acquire wealth is to sell something that is in demand. I will sell for five or ten cents and can only be used on c.c. Carl Laemmle had this idea in his mind when he left Oshkosh, Wis., to go into business in Chicago. He finally decided to open a film theater, with the price of admission fixed at a nickel. As you know, Laemmle ultimately became a millionaire. Milton Hershey, who passed on recently, amassed a fortune estimated at $65,000,000. The basis of this fortune was a chocolate bar selling for a nickel.

PASSING BY: Marlene Dietrich and her husband, Rudolph Seiber, Mr. and Mrs. Seiber will soon be celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary. Marlene's first film hit was in an opus titled "I Kiss Your Hand, M'adame." This was made in Berlin. Her second hit was in "The Blue Angel." Also made in Berlin. Her first film made in the U.S.A. was "Morocco." If you can remember who was her leading man in the last named you have a good memory, and don't have to send me a stogie.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:

Q—How about kippered herring for breakfast? A—Not for me. Only kind of fish I care for on the breakfast menu is codfish cakes. Or codfish balls as they are called in New England. Q—The sergeant says the Fort Erie racetrack is in Buffalo, N. Y. I say it is in Canada. Who has to pick up the check for the steak dinner? A—The Fort Erie track is in Ontario, Canada, about six miles from Buffalo. Q—Of which State is the official flower the rose? A—Depends on what kind of a rose you have in mind. The New York State flower is the rose with no particular type specified. The District of Columbia's flower is the American Beauty rose. Iowa's is the wild rose; North Dakota's, the wild prairie rose, and Georgia's, the Cherokee rose.

SAYS SHE: "Some very wise woman said 'it is better to be married to a man you do not love but loves you than to a man you love.' And how right she was," writes a Chicagoan. "I was very much in love with my first husband and led a miserable life. I like my second husband but do not love him. But he apparently loves me very much. He spares no effort or expense to please me or make me contented. I am very happy. No love, careless rapture, etc., are for young people. Something to enjoy or suffer from in your youth. When a girl marries she should do so chiefly for peace, contentment and security. Put that advice in your Mules & Men and Horses & Women files. It comes from one who knows from her experience and that of many other women."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright 1945 by King Features Synd., Inc.
NEW YORK, Oct. 18—The current trouble along the New York waterfront has long been anticipated by Joseph Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association of the A. F. of L., as a radical invasion of the Atlantic Coast ports.

Ryan's union was driven out of most of the West Coast ports in 1937 and Harry Bridges took control.

Ryan, however, maintained his position on the East Coast although, during the war, he and his A. F. of L. friends watched with apprehension many covert maneuvers of Bridges' CIO longshoremen to invade the Atlantic ports.

The National Maritime Union, which has consistently followed the political line of the Communists, is Bridges' ally in the attempt to seize control of Ryan's following and destroy Ryan's power to resist the penetration of the Atlantic ports.

The attitude of Joseph Curran, president of the N. M. U., was stated in a letter to me in May, 1943.

His union had joined in a program adopted by other CIO groups, in which the Communist influence was strong if not actually predominant, to oppose war assistance to France and Britain.

In the promotion of this program these elements picketed the White House.

President Roosevelt was denounced as one who wanted war and the radicals were chanting "The Yanks Are Not Coming."

This attitude changed over night in June, 1941, when Hitler attacked Russia.

"In my opinion," Curran wrote me, "this did not become a people's war until the Soviet Union was attacked."

SPORADICALLY, throughout the participation of the United States in the actual war these dispatches examined the facts of the conduct of various Communist merchant sailors in harrassing young American enlisted Navy men and junior officers detailed as gun crews aboard merchant ships.

Their great advantage in pay over the loyal American Navy men was emphasized and such publicity was loudly resented by Curran while at the same time, he was said to be boasting to his membership of the high rates which he had obtained for them.

The Navy clamped down secrecy on the log-books of the ships and official reports turned in by the young commanding officers of the armed guard details, so that the public did not always learn of outrageous and often threatening deportment by merchant seamen, many of them aliens.

These logs should now be available. However, like many other records which the radical wing of the Roosevelt Democratic party wants to suppress, they may be stored in warehouses in obscure places and presently conveniently destroyed by fires, floods or mice.

NEVERTHELESS, on the basis of Navy intelligence reports, it is possible to state that insubordination is a mild word for the defiant and provocative conduct of many such seafaring radicals and Communists.

Later, the attitude of the communistic merchant seamen changed. Now they attempted to draw the Navy men into fraternization by sharing their luxurious rations with them and even, in some cases, taking up cash collections for division among them.

All this time, Adm. Emory Land, of the War Shipping Administration, and a group of New Deal house pets, who enjoyed social relations with the Roosevelt, were coddling Curran's union in New York and other eastern ports.

IN SEPTEMBER, 1943, Curran's union established picket lines in New York demanding the suppression of these dispatches, because of the disclosures.

At that time, cargo vessels were hard up for sailors but Curran's union, nevertheless, unwisely insisted that there were 2500 sailors ashore with no more important business than picketing.

"The Industrial Worker," a newspaper, sent an old-time sailor to canvass the line and reported that of 12 men whom he accosted, five were department store workers, two paid officials of radical unions, one employee of the Communist Daily Worker, one a harbor sailor, and two were sailors who had scabbled a genuine strike of seamen.

There was one active, legitimate merchant sailor among the twelve.

"The purpose of the picket line," the Industrial Worker said, "is a direct blow to everything the union men holds dear. Pegler could not expose corruptionism if none existed."

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 18.—Wait 'til you see little Peggy Cummins, 19-year-old British actress. She's a beauty, and she's been here for three weeks.

I met her at the Darryl Zanuck when I went down there for dinner Sunday night and learned that she had appeared in "Junior Miss" and "Adventures of Alice in Wonderland" on the English stage.

I tried my best to find out what Peggy is going to do and who Elia Maxwell inadvertently let drop that she thought Peggy would be perfect for "Forever Amber." The cat was out of the bag just like that! Yes, that's on the fire—"Forever Amber."

At first, when Elsa said "Forever Amber" I thought Peggy would be too young, then I remembered that Amber was only 26 at the end of the book and this girl is certainly pretty enough, and from what I hear talented enough, to be another Vivien Leigh. Sorry, Mr. Zanuck, I told.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT and I cut cake and more cake at Mervyn Le Roy's sumptuous birthday party on the set of "I Was Going to Say 'Thanks God, I'll Take It From Here'" — but the title is being changed. Mervyn had lots of presents and Producer Jesse L. Lasky was there to hand them out and to help Mervyn blow out the candles. No I won't tell how many there were, because he certainly doesn't look 45. You know me—I picked up news while I was there and found out that Don De Fore, the current heart-beat, is to have one of the leading roles. He was borrowed from Hal Wallis. That boy is getting in so solid with us girls.

HERE COME those radio serials crashing the movies again. "Mr. District Attorney," one of the hottest of the air shows, and I don't mean "Hot Air," either, will be produced by Columbia at the rate of one a year. Sam Bischoff, who has just signed with the studio as an independent producer, will handle the "Mr. District Attorneys."

UNA MERKEL is still in the hospital, but her father told me today that her nerves are improving and that she's getting better, which is good news for her friends. He said that she had had literally hundreds of letters from English fans. A story on her illness was printed in London with an invitation to the British fans to write to her. I must say they are loyal for she's had an avalanche of mail. I know as soon as she gets on her feet there will be a job waiting for her.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The Navy has decided it cannot dispense with Eddie Albert's services, and so he is out of "Thanks, God, I'll Take It From Here," an excellent role which Mervyn Le Roy and Jesse Lasky gave him.

me believe the carousing is anything as bad as pictured by alarmist Lee.

I know a few high school students myself and they are certainly not all runts. Lee makes the flat statement that 40 per cent of all Washington high school students smoke and drink.

From what I can gather, guzzling is not the favorite recreation at our high schools. It's romance.

I think I told you before of the weekly feature, "Teen Topics," a resume of the week's high school doings, which appears in our foremost local publication.

I THINK MR. LEE is just being a typical "older generation." It's always a great temptation to "imagine the younger generation is going to hell. Adam undoubtedly thought Cain went wrong because he succumbed to modern fast-living.

But, if there is any drinking at high school football games, the kids can always retort that they are merely following the splendid example of their elders. If you don't think so, just try wading through the broken bottles after any of the professional games, patronized largely by adults!

Boston After Dark

EXCLUSIVE: The most audacious swindle yet enacted on a Boston hotel was the one from which an uptown hotel now is trying to catch its breath . . . A young woman of 30-plus endeared herself to bellhops, clerks, and waiters by her demure manner and her largesse with religious medals . . . In lieu of tips, she would bestow her blessed tokens on the help.

WITH EACH benefaction, the welcome guest would breathe her good wishes, and the hope that all would be well here and hereafter with her newfound friends . . . She told them all that she was the niece of an exalted, clergymen . . . The dodge was successful to the extent that the she-swindler soon was accepted as an honored guest of the hotel.

THE PAYOFF CAME when a telephone operator who had not been favored with a sacred token decided that something was phony . . . So she initiated a telephone call to the high cleric's residence . . . When she was told that the clergyman did not have a niece, the alarm was spread . . . A sheaf of bad checks, amounting, had been cashed by the impostor . . . The police and the hotel—quietly—are looking for the dame.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Hostesses on the airlines call those containers which are distributed to the customers "bump cups" . . . With new customers of the airlines being made with every flight, air-sickness is on the increase . . . Arrie Dann got off to a good start at the Mayfair . . . Jackie Miles, another aspiring young comedian, opens tonight at the Bradford Roof . . . Spencer Tracy and Robert E. Sherwood, star and author respectively of "The Rugged Path," are not seeing eye to eye, and Mr. Tracy does not wish to interpret the role of the starchy-eyed editor of a "lory" newspaper in New York . . . That's why Mr. Tracy will not open in New York . . . As the play will play to capacity here in Boston because of Spencer's drawing-power, nothing written here or in any other newspaper column can be justly interpreted as an effort to hurt the gross business of the play.

SO WE CAN REPORT the news without being accused of trying to hurt the play or the theater in which it is playing . . . Many of the few hundreds who have seen Katharine Hepburn in town, coincident with the opening of "The Rugged Path," are wondering—As many did in Providence when La Hepburn haunted the theater in which the Tracy play was housed in that city—at Katie's interest in the Tracy attraction.

A FEW SEASONS AGO, Miss Hepburn enjoyed the thrill of sponsoring a pair of young writers who had come up with a manuscript called "The Woman of the Year" . . . Katie was then enjoying a come-back in the movies due to a hit movie called "Bringing Up Baby," in which a baby leopard was co-starred with the Connecticut girl . . . A clue to the current presence of Miss Hepburn in Boston is that one of the collaborators on "The Woman of the Year" was Garson Kanin's younger brother, the other writer being Ring Lardner, Jr.

SO FORCEFUL was Miss Hepburn's presentation of the merits of the script of "The Woman of the Year" that Messrs. Kanin and Lardner were paid $100,000 for their efforts . . . The legend still persists that the boys worked only two 24-hour writing periods on the story. (Good pay!)

ried to Ruth Gordon, the Wollaston native, who wrote "Over 21" . . . For the non-initiate public, unfamiliar with the camaraderie of the seven lively arts, it should be emphasized that the fraternity of Hollywood and Broadway is a free-wheeling, communal thing which readily can expunge a talent or two without involving anything of a romantic nature.

Decca aud a million copies of Gertrude Niesen's "I Wanna Get Married" record; can't get material for any more.

CUTEST OF THE hotel shortage stories is a true one. It happened just the other night. A youthful corporal and his love came to New York, were married, and set out to find a place to spend the night—but encountered the usual obstacles. Every hotel was filled. Every rooming house had taken in its "Rooms to Let" sign. None of the servicemen's agencies could help them. Finally they wound up tired and discouraged at the desk of a very old, staid and elegant hotel on Park ave. "I have nothing," the clerk said, "except the bridal suite at $75 a day." The young bridegroom was downcast obviously $35 was close to being all he had in the world—but the girl wouldn't give up without a struggle. She called for the manager, smiled winningly, and talked him into letting them have the bridal suite for the night for only $5. "But on one condition," the harassed fellow said. "You'll have to take the silk sheets and pillowcases off the bed."

Washington Scene

Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc. Reproduction Prohibited.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—For the last week or so, Washington newspapers have been full of shocking charges that local high school athletic contests have practically degenerated into Bacchanalian orgies.

Horrendous accusations of boys and girls getting rummed up, smoking their heads off—and inferentially worse—have been spread upon the record. From the descriptions you might gather that the average high school football game or basketball contest is a cross between a Roman debauch and a prewar weekend on the Riviera.

The thing was started by a party named Adelbert W. Lee, of the District of Columbia Board of Education. He painted such a picture of teen-age vice that it's a wonder many parents haven't taken their daughters out of school and kept them locked up in mothballs.

This Lee, who must be an inspired oracle, suggested that the best remedy might be to ban all high school sports. His argument, as nearly as I could understand it, was that if there were no sports there would be no temptations for the spectators.

Lee seems to feel that athletics, in some way induce juvenile debauchery; that, if sports were eliminated, purity would reign undisturbed. He sounds from here like a fellow who would ban Sunday school picnics as too hazardous because Miss Mathilda Jones, teacher of the Infants' class, fell and mowed her kisser in the potato race.

LEE'S CHARGES have been taken up by that great pillar of righteousness, Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo, chairman of the Senate District of Columbia Committee. Sen. Bilbo thinks something should be done, too, although so far he has not said exactly what.

I wish Bilbo would keep out of this because he will only make matters worse. If he starts going to high school games to check up, I can just see some high-strung, but hitherto completely temperate girl, take one look at him and run screaming for a drink.

I think I would drink to excess, too, if I had either Lee or Bilbo mixing in my affairs. But that is not the point I wish to make.

My point is that cutting out sports would be the worst, not the best thing to do. The best argument on this I have seen in print so far comes from Francis E. Stann, one of our local sports writers. Says Mr. Stann:

"Ban sports and what does that do toward solving the problem? Throw out football between the high schools and you leave open a couple of extra dates a week which the juke joints and the tanked livers will gladly fill.

"If anything, athletics should be stepped up. There should be more intra-mural competition, probably on a compulsory basis.

"The trouble with American youth has been that too few are participating and too many are spectators. This can be proved by Statelike Service figures covering the 4-F pool. Aside from a comparative handful of stars, few Americans are healthy athletes.

"Too many wear chrysantheums and carry blankets. Too few wear football helmets and carry footballs."

Mother Abandons Son After Bus Station Birth

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18 (INS)

Police are investigating the weird story of a 22-year-old girl giving birth to a baby in a downtown bus station restroom, immediately deserting it and then registering at a nearby hotel with an Army Air Corps officer.

The mother, who told police her name is Mrs. Jessie Norman, was being held at General Hospital on a charge of suspicion of child abandonment. With her is the little boy who was born in the station.

Police said that after Mrs. Norman became a mother she went to a hotel with the officer and registered as his wife.

An unidentified woman who saw Mrs. Norman wrap her son in newspapers notified police who traced her to the hotel.

"This man I am with is not the father of the child," police quoted Mrs. Norman as saying. "The real father is an MP in the Army in Tennessee."

The officer was not held.

James C. Scanlon, 43, member of the Massachusetts Senate from 1930 to 1936 and Democratic leader of the Senate in 1935 and '36, died today at his home, Clifton rd., Belmont, after a short illness.

Scanlon served on the Somerville school committee for 10 years and at the time of his death was an oil company executive.

He was a member of the War Production Board on the National Pools Commission for Oil Industries and also a member of the Council of State Government, Mass. Commission on Interstate Commerce.

Newton Corporation Sues Radcliffe

A bill in equity was filed in Middlesex Superior Court today by the Hixon Management Corp. of Newton against the Cambridge board of appeal and Radcliffe College.

The corporation charged the board exceeded its authority by relaxing the zoning laws and ordering the superintendent of buildings to issue a permit to the college to construct a dormitory at 55 Garden st., a property owned by Radcliffe.

Judge Dillon ordered an issue of notice returnable on Nov. 4.

Blind Girl Weds At Journey's End

NORTHILL, Bedfordshire, Eng., Oct. 18 (AP)—Miss Mary Grace Mansfield of Colorado Springs, Col., who has been blind nearly all her 33 years, was married today to Harry Christopher Marsom, 44, the blind English mechanic she traveled 5000 miles to wed.

After the ceremony in a 14th Century church, the couple walked unaided down the aisle past 200 friends, then they made their way to the 300-year-old Crown Inn operated by the Marsom family.

There, at a reception for 60 guests, the bride cut the wedding cake.

"I love England and this is indeed a happy day," said the radiant-faced bride.

2 Women, Baby Hurt in Crash

Two women and a 14-month-old baby were injured early today when the auto in which they were riding leaped the reservation on Boylston st., Brookline, knocked down an electric light pole and crashed into a tree.

The victims are Mrs. Georgiana Sostilio, 44, who police said was driving the car; her daughter, Mrs. Doris Dalphone, 23, both of Oakland st., Natick, and the latter's daughter, Georgiana, 14 months.

She Loses $800 But Not for Long

By FRANK McLEAN

If you're a cynic you can remain that way, but hear:

Mrs. Catherine Emelsarb of 11 High st., Canton, came to town and took a cab. She left her handbag in the cab. In it was $800.

Next passengers were Miss Helen McKenna, Foster st., Brighton, and Miss May Mahoney, same address.

Just about the time Mrs. Emelsarb was reporting her loss to the police, Miss McKenna telephoned her. There had been a card in the handbag.

Miss McKenna restored the $800. Mrs. Emelsarb gratefully pressed upon her the nice round sum of $50.

Lots of nice people in the world.

Income Tax Cut OK'd in Senate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Senate finance committee voted today to cut individual income taxes $2,085,000,000 a year and remove an estimated 12,000,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls.

The Senators also agreed to repeal the excess profits tax on corporations Jan. 1.

They voted to retain the 3 per cent "normal" tax on individuals, but to apply the same exemptions as govern the surtax—$500 for the taxpayer and each dependant.

But where the House voted to reduce the surtax rate in each bracket by four points, the Senate group held the reduction to three points.

Military Funeral in Paris For Frederick A. Carroll

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—A full military funeral next Saturday, in Paris, will be accorded Frederick A. Carroll, American Red Cross commissioner for Great Britain and Western Europe, who was killed Tuesday in a motor crash near Chantilly, France.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I was inducted into the Army in February, 1941, and was discharged in May of the same year. I have no credit for days served as I was in the hospital during that period. Am I eligible for any bonus? J. B., Lowell.

A—Yes.

Q—Servicewoman whose husband has been discharged wishes to know if she may apply for discharge? T. S., Boston.

A—Yes.

Q—Is a common-law wife entitled to an allotment?

A—Yes, provided husband will recognize her as wife.

Q—Is it true that students who left college to enter the service will be discharged? F. M. N., Malden.

A—No.

Q—My husband is in limited service because of defective eyesight. He is due for another physical. Is the limited service status still in effect? T. L. G., Braintree.

A—Limited service still maintained. Further regulations may cause him another checkup.

Q—Is the State of Minnesota awarding a bonus? W. E. A., Revere.

A—Minnesota has set up fund for service men that will amount to $2,500,000; loans made to veterans and their families with $250 maximum per year; advances educational benefits to those veterans not entitled to federal government benefits; has built commission around features of GI Bill of Rights; no bonus.

Q—My husband's enlistment in the Marine Corps expires in March, 1946. Will he be discharged at that time, or just treated as a reserve if he is still overseas? B. M., Somerville.

A—Will be discharged.

Q—I received Family Allowance until my husband was discharged in July. Our baby was born in June, but I was not able to obtain a copy of the birth record until a few weeks ago. Can I apply for Family Allowance for the baby now for July? T. W., Boston.

A—No. The application of Family Allowance should have been filed prior to date of discharge of the soldier, without the birth record if necessary, but may not be filed now.

Q—I have a son, 22 years old, who has been in limited service, due to blindness in one eye. Will he be sent to Japan now or, due to limited service, will he be returned to the States from his present overseas post in Pacific? He has been in Army three years, overseas since July, F. G., Dorchester.

A—Army is not sending limited service men back to United States from overseas due to that classification. No doubt your son was sent to a replacement center prior to V-J Day, but as a low point man he may have to remain for duty. Probably he is capable of doing certain work.

Q—I would like to know if GIs with 60 points will get out in November in accordance with published statements by Army officials. F. W., Chelsea.

A—I believe you refer to the statement made by Gen. Marshall before a Congressional committee investigating the Army's demobilization program a few weeks ago. The Army thus far has not indicated when 60 point minimum will be announced.

Father's Neglect Of Girl Ires Court

Decision by a father that he did not want to either pay alimony or see his child today drew the ire of Judge Robert G. Wilson, Jr., who granted an uncontested divorce in Suffolk probate court to Mrs. Ruth Witt of Greenwood st., Dorchester.

"He'll find he will have to support the child," Judge Wilson commented after reading a communication from the father, Louis Witt, now in a hospital. The judge said he would enforce the support of the youngster, Marlene, 7, as soon as Witt is released.

Mrs. Witt was granted the decree on grounds of cruelty.

AMERICAN AIRLINES SYSTEM
ANNOUNCES
FIRST AIR SERVICE
BOSTON to LONDON

Tuesday, October 23rd, at 5 p. m., American Airlines System inaugurates the first commercial airline service for passengers, mail and express, from Boston to London. Stewardess and purser service and complimentary meals will be provided. This initial flight will land at Newfoundland, Eire and London.

Regularly scheduled service each Tuesday will continue and additional transatlantic flights direct from Boston will be added as the receipt of additional aircraft makes them possible. Priorities for passengers no longer are required.

All of our flights will be operated with four-engine, DC-4 transports, famous for their efficiency and dependability during the war. DC-4's were flown around the world by the Air Transport Command, serving most theatres of war; today, this same type plane is bringing home an average of 50,000 troops per month from overseas.

American Airlines System pilots and crews made thousands of flights back and forth across the Atlantic since 1942 for commercial and military service.

Hot Gingerbread Grand For Lunch in Evening

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

AUTUMN IS an especially homey season—vacations are over; the family see more of each other; the young children bring their playmates in after school for cookies, or apples, or milk; the older ones get together at each other's houses evenings to study, or dance, or play; and even Mother's and Dad's friends appear more frequently at the house.

All of which makes more work for the homemaker—but these early experiences build up memories of home for boys and girls that will stay with them all their lives. Good things to eat are always among the important memories of home—and nothing will ever compare with Mother's homemade cookies, mince-meat or doughnuts.

By the way, how long is it since you baked a pan of gingerbread for your family? Hot gingerbread with fresh apple-sauce will go very well one of these fall evenings. Why not try it?

GINGERBREAD

*1/2 cup shortening 1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup molasses
2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
1 1/4 tsp. baking soda
1/2 tsp. powdered cloves
1 tsp. cinnamon 1 tsp. ginger
1/2 tsp. salt 1 cup hot water*

Work the shortening with a spoon until fluffy and creamy, then add the sugar gradually, while continuing to work with a spoon until light. Add the beaten egg and the molasses. Then add the sifted dry ingredients and the hot water alternately in thirds, beating well with a spoon after each addition. Bake in greased and floured cake pan about 9x12 inches in a moderate oven of 350 deg. F. for 45 to 50 minutes. Or turn into greased and floured 2 1/2-inch cupcake or muffin pans, and bake in a moderate oven of 375 deg. F. for 20 to 30 minutes. Makes about 2 dozen cupcakes.

Don't forget about the ready-to-mix gingerbreads which you'll find at the grocers'. Simply add liquid and bake according to the directions on the package. And with Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas ahead, it's high time we thought of mince-meat.

MINCEMEAT

*5 lbs. lean beef, chopped
1 lb. suet, chopped
6 lbs. fat apples, chopped
3 lbs. raisins 2 lbs. currants
5 lbs. brown sugar 1 tsp. salt
1 lb. sliced citron
3 ounces candied lemon peel
1 lemon—juice and grated rind
1 orange—juice and grated rind
1 tbsp. each cloves, allspice, cinnamon
1 tsp. nutmeg
1/2 gallon sweet cider*

Boil cider and sugar to syrup. Add other ingredients and cook slowly for 2 hours. Seal tightly in jars.

CRUNCHY SPICE COOKIES

*3 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
3/4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt 1/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. ginger
3/4 tsp. powdered cloves
1/2 tsp. baking soda
1 egg, well beaten
1-3 cup melted shortening
1 cup molasses*

Sift together the dry ingredients 3 times. Combine egg, shortening, and molasses. Add flour mixture gradually, while stirring, and blend well. Cover bowl and chill several hours or overnight in refrigerator. Shape into tiny balls 3/4 in. in diameter. Roll in granulated sugar. Bake on greased or oiled cookie sheets in a moderately hot oven of 375 deg. F. for 10 minutes. Makes 5 doz. cookies.

Feet Demand Attention

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

BECAUSE THE FEET spend most of their time encased in stockings and shoes, there is a tendency to give them considerably less care than we give to our face and hands. Yet very often the glint in the eye and the smile on the lips are there because we are literally "on our toes."

More than just grooming them for appearances in open sandals... we must also give them care and attention because unhappy feet cause furrows in your brow... sharp edges in your disposition... and make you feel generally miserable.

There is nothing more ruinous to the temper than fatigued and aching feet... to say nothing of the worried look it transmits to our features. But you can lift yourself out of the doldrums at the end of a tiring day... with a 15-minute treatment... using a traditionally fine foot cream and lotion... and massaging as directed.

Bathe the feet five minutes in warm water. Rub on the foot cream... stretching each toe to its full length. Place the hands... fingertips touching... under the ball of the foot and pull up and back toward the heel and on up to the ankle with strong, firm movements. Finish with a wringing motion around the ankle. Repeat exercise several times. Remove the cream and apply the foot lotion.

TINGLING, EXHILARATING EFFECT

Incidentally, a wonderful trick for getting additional pleasure out of this treatment is to chill the foot cream and lotion before applying... You will rejoice in the tingling, exhilarating effect. Spend a few minutes like this several times a week and feel your feet respond, your posture improve, your disposition brighten.

Sometimes a simple treatment like this can brighten the whole personality picture for you. That dragged-out, dragged-down feeling can be quickly dissipated if your feet are fine... and then watch your face light up with radiant glow.

For the name of this effective cream and lotion phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love Affair in School Handicap to Good Grades

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—For a year I kept company with a young man six years older. I'm going into my last year in high school. This young man came over to our house a great deal, as he's a friend of the family, but they never knew of our friendship.

When he went into the Army, he met another girl of whom he became very fond and now that he has come home again he seldom comes over, and treats me as if I were some little girl. I'm 17.

He has a younger brother and I've gone out with him a couple of times and like him too. Do you think I'm too young to be going with the older man? Should I go with his brother and the other younger boys instead?

Let's be thankful for the younger brother. A 17-year-old high school girl strikes me as too young to be seriously interested in anyone. Perhaps when the glare of the other girl will come back; then you'll have two strings to your bow.

My advice is not to be too serious about any boys while you're in high school. Friendships are fine, but love affairs are devastating to good grades. Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc.

Don't Ignore Neckline

By BETTINA BEDWELL

YOUR NECKLINE, which is too often considered just another line, may be that on which the fate of your face hangs for the length of time you wear a dress. This winter, with so many different kinds of necklines around, you can have a dress with one that does right by your face.

The "neckline" is an important style, but if you're not the kind to look well with that kind of dress you'd better stay away from it. If you have a fleshy jaw and face you can wear a high neckline, too, but it mustn't look as if it were choking you to death, which it often does, alas.

Try to get a line that flatters your face and neck, your shoulder and bosom lines a little, at least. You'll know when you get the right kind if you just take the trouble to study yourself in a good mirror when you try on a new dress.

A SUNNY disposition and happy countenance are very often the reflection of happy, comfortable feet... since it is a recognized fact that unhappy, tired footsies cause furrows in the brow and sharp edges in the personality. When there are no pinched feet, there is no pinched look... so treat your treaders to a simple yet effective routine... and light up your face as prettily as lovely Lorraine Miller's cast of countenance.

Plans for Second Marriage

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:
My fiancé is returning from overseas within the next two weeks, and we are planning to be married.

1—I've been married before and am divorced. My first wedding was a large one, and my fiancé wants to have a fairly large wedding for ours. Is this proper, and also what is proper as to number of attendants, and as to dress?

2—We are non-Catholics. May we be married in church at the altar? N. S.

1—For your second wedding you will show best taste if you keep all arrangements on the side of simplicity and informality. It is best for you to invite your guests informally (by telephone or by notes); to have one attendant each; and you may wear either a long, dinner-dress type gown with harmonizing hat, a street-length dress or dressmaker suit.

2—The fact that you are non-Catholics doesn't necessarily mean that you may be married in church. For authority about this permission, consult the minister of your church.

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:
At a troussau tea what are the duties of the mother of the bride-to-be? L. A.

Usually at the troussau tea, the mother of the bride-to-be stands with her daughter to receive and welcome the guests and when all the guests have arrived, she "circulates" among them to see that everyone is made comfortable and happy, that any necessary introductions are made, and to guide directions concerning the refreshments.

Rather than have her mother "pestered" at the tea-table, the bride-to-be usually invites some of her most intimate (and decorative) friends to preside over the tea-table, perhaps two for each hour of the party. The mother may stay with her guests during the entire party, or she may withdraw while the troussau is being displayed by her daughter, returning in time to receive the good-byes of the guests.

Smart Set Princess' Kin Weds

By BETTY ALDEN

THE RECENT MARRIAGE of 19-year-old Irina Cantacuzene, daughter of Prince Michael Cantacuzene of Chicago and the late Princess Clarissa Felham Curtis Cantacuzene, to Douglas Erickson of Boston and Nassau, is of great interest to the generation of Hub society which comprised the debutante and young Harvard set of the last prewar era.

Irina's mother was the outstanding glamor girl of that generation and leading lady in one of Boston's most brilliant international romances. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Curtis of Beacon st., and in 1921 married Prince Michael Cantacuzene, Russian nobleman, a few days after his graduation from Harvard as a classmate of her brother.

The Prince and Princess had two memorable weddings, one in the Russian Orthodox Church in Roxbury with the traditional service of the crowns, and another in the village church at Nahant where some years later President Roosevelt's son John was married to Anne Clarke. Through his mother, the former Julia Grant, granddaughter of President Ulysses S. Grant, the Prince had many family connections in American society. The Princess died in 1939.

Their only daughter, Irina, now the bride of Ensign Erickson, was also married at a traditional Russian ceremony.

A. Wentworth Erickson, Jr., was best man for his brother. They are sons of Mrs. A. W. Erickson of Glenwood, Nassau. For several years the Erickson boys have lived at Inagua, a tiny island in the British West Indies where they operated a chemical plant. Doug and his bride will reside in San Francisco while awaiting his Navy orders. He graduated from Harvard in 1938 and was formerly married to Anne Whipple, Boston society girl, who is now Mrs. Charles Coburn.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Mary Elizabeth Curran to Lt. Col. Lawrence M. Kirk of Newton is announced by Maj. and Mrs. Daniel J. Curran of Marlboro, parents of the future bride. Mary Elizabeth, a graduate of Regis College, is assistant to the public relations officer at Cushing General Hospital.

Col. Kirk served in the European Theater, with the 26th Division as commanding officer of the 1st Battalion of the 101st Regiment. He is now at Camp Edwards.

FROM NANTUCKET to New Hampshire music lovers are flocking to Boston this week-end for the first of six Sunday afternoon concerts by the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Since the end of gas rationing subscriptions have come in from distant points and Mrs. Fallon at Symphony Hall has noted that many couples are signing up since Sunday is the only day musically inclined wives can bring their husbands

Hearts Transplanted By Russian Biologist

MOSCOW, Oct. 18 (AP)—Success in transplanting hearts from one animal to another has been reported by Prof. N. P. Sinits of the Gorki Medical Institute, quoted by the Soviet press today as saying his experiments gave hope that some time it might be possible to replace defective hearts in higher animals.

Rodman Killing Suspect Sought

Police today revealed a 29-year-old Mattapan man, suspected of two handbag thefts, was wanted for questioning in the brutal slaying of Miss Sarah Rodman, 43, of Fottler rd., Mattapan.

The suspect disappeared the day after Miss Rodman was fatally beaten and throttled at the door of her home. Police said he was seen drinking in a near-by tavern shortly before the woman was attacked.

The man, a former male nurse at Boston State Hospital, was once indicted for stealing a woman's handbag and throttling her. The charge was not proved; police said.

He is known to have left Boston but his present whereabouts is a mystery. Police throughout the East have been asked to be on the lookout.

GIs Call Strikers To Get 'Em Home

PARIS, Oct. 18 (AP)—Awaiting redeployment home, 918 officers and men of the U. S. Eighth Armored Division sent this telegram to Joseph P. Ryan, president of the striking International Longshoremen's Ass'n.

"We, members of the 130th Armored Ordnance Battalion, Eighth Armored Division, urge you and the ship owners to call off the strike and use arbitration which will release hundreds of ships now badly needed in the I.T.O. Thousands of GIs on this continent are waiting impatiently to join their loved ones back home and feel you have let them down.

"We did our share. We urge you to do yours."

1 Hurt, 2 Arrested In Union Row

Legless Vet Weds Bride He Rescued

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 18 (AP)—Honeymooning today are a former Army private who lost both legs last October when he stepped on a land mine in Holland and the nurse he rescued from drowning in the Wabigoon river, northern Ontario.

They are Clifford Willis, 21, and former Lt. Hazel Wall of Toronto. A campaign fund of $1500 was presented them at their wedding here yesterday.

They plan to live in Niagara Falls, where Willis has obtained a position as a draftsman.

Willis walks and dances on artificial limbs. With them he swam to the rescue of his bride and another nurse, Mrs. Iris Brown, Toronto, last July.

Would Amend DAR Hall Tax Exemption

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Legislation to amend the tax exemption status of Constitution Hall here was introduced in the House today by Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D-California).

It would condition the exemption accorded to the Daughters of the American Revolution, operators of the hall, "on their not denying the commercial use or rental of Constitution Hall by reason of race, creed, color or national origin."

Learns War Over

MANILA, Oct. 18 (AP)—A Japanese soldier, Shijo Fukumoto, came out of his hillside cave 20 miles from Manila today, and learned the war was over.

He surrendered a bag of rice, a half pound of cassava chips (roots), one can of salt and two hand grenades. He was placed in a prisoner of war camp. "Now I can go home to Kobe," he said with relief.

Maritime Sailors Say They Are Union 'Prisoners'

By AUSTEN LAKE

A DELEGATION OF YOUTHS in Merchant Marine uniforms came in today. They were blue-clothed youngsters of clean, wind-blown complexions and typical of the sound core of American youth. And they said they were part of the vast "captive" thousands of merchant sailors who are being "held prisoner" by the maritime unions against their will and sympathies.

Austen Lake

They said they are part of the enormous numbers of youth who joined the U. S. Shipping Administration's wartime training program and were forced to join either the National Maritime Union or the CIO before being eligible to go to sea. They paid $2.50 a month to the union organizations' huge war chest, with no public accounting.

They say they were permitted no voice in opposing what they consider unpatriotic strikes, "engineered" by insurgent radicals among the career seamen, who shout them down with threats. They say they have no rights as veterans, nor equal opportunities for discharge to return to their peacetime pursuits. They may not, they say, be released from their ships unless they enter the armed services or be subject to Selective Service boards. They do not, as a body, wish to follow the sea as a career and joined only to perform wartime service.

Their Unionism Was Forced Upon Them!

BUT THE BIG ACHING GRIPE is their compulsory submission to union dictates which, they charge, are in the hands of a small group of willful radicals, including the insurgent longshoremen's faction, which has arbitrarily ordered a paralyzing strike in New York while hundreds of thousands of AEF soldiers are waiting transportation home and millions of tons of essential military and civilian relief goods are left on the docks. As unwilling union "captive," forced into what they consider a left wing organization motivated "by selfish interest, contrary to the will and welfare of the American people," they declare they have no choice but to submit.

That's what this delegation says. And it adds up with the little snow drift of letters from other maritime sailors. Like this one, signed by 16 names:

"Before war started America had around 55,000 unionized seamen. Today, following a nationwide patriotic campaign, with hurrah posters and bands and speeches, we have a merchant marine force of 250,000 men, most of whom were trained in the U. S. War Shipping Administration program.

"Our unionization was forced upon us since there are hardly any shipping lines which operate without union contracts. We had no choice. No union card, no ship... It didn't seem important at the time. But now that the union 'regulars' are blowing the lid off with wildcat strikes, we are the suckers. Not that we don't believe in the soundness of unions where there are real labor issues. But why should we, who are not professional seamen, be made helpless tools in political struggles over union jurisdictions? And particularly where it was the U. S. government which forced us into this union situation."

And this one, with nice signatures: "We've tried in vain to interest Congress in our case. All we get is polite form letters and when the sea was a real war hazard. Our casualty percentage was as high as, or higher than, any other service... We signed with civilian status and trained under the WSA. But now the WSA doesn't seem to be interested in us any more."

"We're subject to two agencies, the Selective Service which threatens to throw us into the armed forces if we leave ship, and the unions which dictate how, when and if we shall work. Actually we are between the devil and the deep blue sea.

"It's a situation where neither body nor soul can be called our own and nobody seems to give a damn. The unions make a pretense of helping us non-professional seamen because it is to union advantage to have us held in service and under their thumbs."

"It isn't that we want to quit before the job is done! But let's get it done. That's why we are bitter at high-handed union strike activities and we want no part of them. That's why the unions at this time are taking advantage of our predicament and using their war-swollen membership and dues as a weapon to force unwelcome issues. We know that if these strikes were put to an honest and open poll they'd be voted down. It's just due to the rule of a few radical union bosses with strong Communist influence and a weak-kneed, vote-frightened Congress which doesn't dare do anything about it."

There are other such protests, including some from soldiers and their waiting families! One from a service mother reads, "... this maritime strike is the cruellest of all. My boy, like many thousands of others, has been overseas for years, wounded and living under hellish conditions... Now they may not get home for Christmas... The bitterness of it. To be held up, not by the needs and duty toward the country they served so well, but by a small band of selfish countrymen who are concerned with squeezing out extra privileges which our combat soldiers never enjoyed."

"My late husband was always an upholder of unions, but not that type of unionism where license is mistaken for liberty. If we have fallen into the hands of a few headstrong, despotic labor leaders—then the great mass of Americans have indeed lost the privileges our boys have fought to save."

"I write this reluctantly, because I am a second generation American and proud to have given a son to the service. But I sense the Americanism which is our greatest boast is seriously threatened by a little group of powerful, selfish 'Union' (?) leaders who are using American labor as a screen for something sinister..."

That's all!

Conn Signs for Louis; Agrees to Tuneup Ban

NEW YORK, Oct. 18 (INS)—Billy Conn signed a contract with Fight Promotor Mike Jacobs today calling for a championship bout with heavyweight titleholder Joe Louis next June. Louis signed with Jacobs on Tuesday. The Conn signing was held up a day because of a protest by Billy and his manager, Johnny Ray, against a clause in the contract which stipulated that there be no tune up fights prior to the Louis fight.

Following a lengthy morning meeting with Jacobs behind locked doors, Conn and Ray today O. K'd the stipulation and signed, agreeing not to hold any tune up bouts.

The no tune up clause will not interfere with commitments already made by Conn for exhibition fights, refereeing tasks or any such public appearances he has made or may make in the future, such as radio performances.

The heavyweight challenger, honorably discharged from the Army a month ago, said that he would undergo a period of light conditioning until March, when he will start heavy training.

The Conn-Louis fight, which is expected to draw an all-time record gate of $3,000,000, is tentatively booked for New York's Yankee Stadium. The battle will take place five years from the last meeting between the two fighters, in which Louis came from behind to knock out the challenger in the 13th round.

Present at today's ceremonies were a group of fight notables, including Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich.

Ray said he had tentatively accepted three exhibition bouts for Conn and probably would schedule several more. Conn will box Al Patterson of Pittsburgh in Kansas City, Nov. 7, and will meet opponents still to be selected in Buffalo, N. Y., in early November and in Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.

Priest Ordered To Box Cabral

The State Boxing Commission paved the way for a local waterweight fight natural when it ruled that Al (Red) Priest of Cambridge must go through with his scheduled contract to meet Freddy Cabral, his fellow townsman, in the Callahan A. C. 10-round feature at Mechanics Building, Monday, Oct. 29.

With the official O. K. from the commission after Johnny Buckley, manager of Priest, had threatened to ignore the contract, Matchmaker Sam Silverman will now line up an attractive prelim program to support the feature.

The rivalry between Priest and Cabral is the keenest between Cambridge fighters since the Pad-Over-Joe Stanton feuds in the old days.

Bonus for Win Denied Cleveland Rams

CLEVELAND, Oct. 18 (AP)—Promise of a $50 bonus to each member of the Cleveland Rams for defeating the champion Green Bay Packers in a pro football league game last Sunday has been withdrawn because it conflicted with the league's bonus clause, General Manager Charles Walsh said today.

Walsh said he withdrew the offer after Comm. Elmer Layden started an investigation.

Howard Buries Veteran Trainer

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 18 (INS)—Death's curtain of obscurity was lifted today from a man whose body lay unclaimed for a week in a San Jose undertaking parlor. The dead man was Hugh Drury, one-time confidante of the socialite polo set, and trainer of such polo stars as Lin Howard, Eric Pedley, Earl Hopping and George Pope.

Informed of his death, Charles Howard, sportsman and owner of the racehorse Sea Biscuit, claimed the body of the man who died last Wednesday in oblivion at about 70. Funeral services, arranged by Howard, will be held Monday in Burlingame, Cal.

Holmer Here To Help BU Team

Lt. Walt Holmer, Boston University's football coach, has made an unexpected appearance at Nickerson Field and will help Acting Coach Bob McKelvey whip the Terriers into shape for their opener at Medford against Tufts Saturday.

Walt, who was stationed at the Naval pre-flight school at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, has just been assigned to Boston and has a short leave.

Knowing that McKelvey had an almost impossible on-man job, Walt has helped out the last two days and will continue to work with the backs until his leave expires.

Navy Coach Names Starting Lineup

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 18 (INS)—Navy Coach Swede Hagberg, who is taking no chances of a possible upset, expressed satisfaction today following a workout of the Navy backfield for Saturday's tilt with Georgia Tech at Baltimore.

Clyde Scott, Sunny Sundheim, Bob Kelly and Hunchy Hoernschmeyer will be the starting backs. Other starters will be Dick Duden and Leon Barnette, ends; Chuck Kiser and Bo Coppedge, tackles; Jim Harrington and Ed Durtmace, guards, and Dicky Scott, center.

Lou Smith Increases Purses at Rock to $2000

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—"It was mighty tough that I did not detach myself long enough from the lights of Broadway to head for Rockingham Park and win one of those $8000 daily doubles," said the bell boy, who took my bags when I stepped out of the taxicab at the Edison Hotel . . . "I have been playing daily doubles for years in the hope of getting one like they had at Rockingham."

The huge Rockingham double will at least stop people I meet in travels from asking about the Coconut Grove fire . . . when out-of-towners found one came from Boston, they would usually begin asking questions about the Coconut Grove fire . . . the Rockingham daily double will make a much more interesting topic of conversation . . . race trackers take long trips to see the thoroughbreds in action . . . in the dining car of the 6 p. m. train from Boston to New York, I met a man who had watched the eight races at Rockingham, caught the train and was merrily on his way home to New London . . . "I didn't win the daily double or pick any nag that came down in front," said the man, "but perhaps I shall have better luck next time I go to the races."

The bell boy at the Edison called my attention to the fact Eddie Arcaro, proclaimed the greatest rider in the world by the jockeys, has signed a new contract with the Greentree Stable . . . Arcaro will undergo a leg operation after the Pimlico meeting, and take things easy until Hialeah Park opens . . . Bobby Permane announces he will leave for California as soon as the New York season closes to ride the horses of Charles S. Howard . . . remember Seabiscuit, pride of the Howard Stable?

Jockey Ted Atkinson has finally come out of his long losing streak . . . it was in New England that Atkinson and Permane first gained fame as jockeys . . . I shall always remember the day Atkinson won the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap with Sam Riddle's War Relic . . . Atkinson was so jubilant after he crossed the mythical finish line in front that he stood up in his stirrups and waved his whip at the crowd.

Lou Smith told me before I left Rockingham Park for New York that he had increased the minimum purses at the Salem, N. H. oval to $2000 . . . placing Rockingham on the same minimum purse scale established by Allan Wolfe at Suffolk Downs and by Judge Dooley at Narragansett Park . . . The fall meeting at Rockingham has been the most successful in the history of the track . . . Bar Wilow with Jockey Francis Tobin of Dorchester up looked impressive winning the Shawshuset to return $10.60 for win tickets . . . Valma Craft ran a good race to get second money with Page 2nd third . . . Mrs. L. Wolf's horses, who didn't do very well during the first week of the Rockingham meeting, are beginning to click . . . Wise Chance beat Dairy Lady to pay $8.40 . . . Now that the Wolf horses are acclimated after their trip from the West, they should win many races.

Conn Wants Action

Billy Conn has delayed signing for a title bout with Joe Louis next June as he wishes to engage in three tuncup matches . . . I do not believe Billy will insist on such a program . . . With a $3,000,000 rate in view, it would be silly for Conn to risk injury or defeat in a minor bout . . . If Conn wants action, he can get it by hiring top sparring partners and telling them to throw every punch in the book at him.

When Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey were battling rival heavyweights, they employed the best available sparring partners . . . Jimmy Braddock, Joe Sykyra and Johnny Grosso were numbered among Sharkey's sparring partners. Dempsey would have half a dozen of the best available heavyweights tossing leather at him.

Billy Conn at 191 pounds requires plenty of hard work to get into condition for Louis, but he has time between now and next June to get it . . . Conn, like Louis, will engage in a series of exhibition bouts before opening his training camp . . . The only reaction to Mike Jacobs' announcement there will be a $100 price for ringside seats for the Billy-Conn bout was a wild rush on the part of ticket fans to get in their bids for the precious pasteboards.

Praise for Boxing

Brig. Gen. John R. Kilpatrick has returned to his duties as president of the New York Garden after four years in the Army . . . The General declared "We are on the verge of a terrific renaissance in sports. I predict that boxing will lead the way . . . Of the ten million men in the Army and three million in the Navy, the larger number took an interest in boxing both as spectator and participant. There is a world of new talent there, perhaps numbered in the hundreds of thousands."

"Joe Louis' appearance all over the country and overseas was a tremendous thing . . . Many young men from small towns who never thought of boxing saw the heavy-weight champion in action. They are hanging onto the interest so created by the service of attendance at baseball, boxing and football is upward and will continue upward and the future is unforseeable."

Boston will not be able to take its full part in this sports boom due to the fact it has not a suitable outdoor sports stadium. Now that Lt. Col. Walter A. Brown, who has done such a grand job with the Garden and Arena, is planning to go back into sports promotions on a bigger scale than ever he may find time to show Gov. Tobin and Mayor Kerrigan how such a structure could be built and used profitably . . . Col. Dave Egan, leader in the fight for such a stadium, might sit in with Messrs. Tobin, Kerrigan, Brown and John Q. Public as the matter is discussed.

No. Quincy Points To Undefeated Year

By MIKE GILLOOLY

North Quincy High School's football team has completed the revenge motive of its present schedule and the boys have done it so well that they're roaring into the midway mark of their program with their sights set on an undefeated season—and with experience and ball handling finesse gaining momentum, this fighting little outfit may turn the trick.

Coach Jack Donahue's boys have a healthy start in the right direction but there's still a rough road ahead.

North has chalked up three impressive victories in four starts after a scoreless tie with Framingham had opened the campaign. This tune-up was just what North needed to topple Mill-ton (14-0), Dedham (14-6) and the Weymouth (25-0). And in that list, Coach Donahue had avenged his only two losses of last fall, Dedham and Weymouth, against a record of seven triumphs.

This new mark has more than pleased Coach Donahue. When he issued the call for candidates, 80 boys reported but of this group only four were veterans. His team isn't yet as smooth as he'd like it but it should be vastly improved for the Hingham contest Saturday afternoon. Every practice session under Coach Donahue and Asst. Walter Bryan polishes off another rough spot.

LINE SHIFT HELPS

In the line North had only Hank Fisher, a center, and Bob Gallagher, a guard, back from last fall's first team. But rather than concentrate his experienced material in the center of the line, Coach Donahue undertook a conversion program that shifted Fisher, 160 pounds, to an end and Gallagher, 168, to a tackle. They've held up the line so well that the fans can count on their fingers the number of times the Quincy 40-yard stripe has been crossed.

Coach Donahue could afford these moves because he had some promising talent coming up from the subs. Fran Barrett, 155 pounds, fitted nicely into the pivot while Fred Wilkinson, 158, Bill Robertson, 158, and Bill Reed, 161, had the guards well in command. More diggings uncovered a first-class tackle in Paul Kennedy, 160, and a clever end in Lloyd Carroll, 160, to complete the frontier.

The backfield was well settled until last Saturday when Bruce Lindson, 148-pound junior, stepped into the line-up. He figured so in Weymouth's defeat that there's a possibility he may be a starter against Hingham.

His seat-back running presents a problem for the punters. Quarterback: Ed Sweeney, 158-pound quarter-back; Dave Burke, 160-pound half; Leo Luchini, 160-pound half; and Bill Walsh, 185-pound full-back. Lindson stepped into the single and double-wingback attack when Walsh broke his nose against Weymouth and it's going to be a problem to keep him out of the line-up.

Veteran Burke handles the passing while the only other hold-over from the 1944 eleven, Walsh, takes care of the punting. Other North players who will see action this fall include: centers—Bob Doherty, Al Perlmutter; guards—Bill O'Connell, Joe Conannon; tackles—Ed Smith, Elmer Burns, Bud Teson; ends—Lou DeBona, Fred Radtke, Con Duggan, Don Mahn, Fran Forsythe, Phil Gillis; backs—John Bowen, Roy Shaughnessy, Dennis Morrissey, George Doherty, Tony Macaluso, Frank Deninger and Sid Greer.

The schedule, after Hingham, lists: Norwood, Oct. 27; Abington, Nov. 3; Rindge Tech, Nov. 10, and Quincy on Thanksgiving Day.
